THE FORTY-EIGHTH REPORT

OF

THE DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY,

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,

I RESPECTFULLY beg leave to submit to Your Majesty a Report of the proceedings in the Public Record Office during the year 1886; pursuant to the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94. § 17.

The Forty-seventh Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records was made to Your Majesty by Sir William Hardy, F.S.A., and my first duty is to mention the loss which this Department has sustained by his resignation. My predecessor entered the public service, as a Junior Clerk in the Record Office at the Tower of London, as far back as February 1823. Seven years later he was appointed Clerk of the Records in the Duchy of Lancaster Office, and during his term of service in that capacity he edited a volume of Translations of the "Charters of the Duchy of Lancaster," which was published in 1845. When Your Majesty graciously presented the muniments of the Duchy of Lancaster to the nation, their custodian was transferred to the staff of the Public Record Office in October 1868, with the rank and emoluments of an Assistant Keeper of Records. The Thirtieth Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records contains an Inventory of the Documents removed from Lancaster Place to the General Repository on the Rolls estate, prepared and examined by Mr. William Hardy. To the Thirty-first, Thirty-fifth, and Thirty-sixth Reports Mr. Hardy contributed successive instalments of a Calendar of Ancient Charters of the Duchy of Lancaster, and to the Thirty-second, Thirty-third, and Thirty-seventh Reports a Calendar of the Rolls of the Chancery of the County Palatine of Lancaster. Soon after the death of his brother, Sir Thomas Duffus Hardy, D.C.L. and LL.D., in June 1878, he was nominated by Sir George Jessel, Master of the Rolls, to succeed to the office of Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, and Your Majesty was graciously pleased to approve of that nomination by warrant dated the 4th of July of that year. In further token of appreciation of my predecessor's services, Your Majesty was pleased to confer upon him the honour of knighthood in December 1883.

In addition to work done during official hours, Sir William Hardy edited, for the series of Chronicles and Memorials published by the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury, under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, four volumes of the "Recueil des Chroniques et anchiennes Istories de la Grant "Bretaigne a present nomme Engleterre, par Jehan de Waurin," and one volume of translation of the same. He was also one of Your Majesty's Commissioners on Historical Manuscripts. On the 27th of January 1886 he resigned the post of Deputy Keeper on account of age and failing health, and he died on the 17th of March in the present year. Your Majesty has lost in him a servant of great experience and erudition, distinguished by his uniform kindness and courtesy towards all with whom he was brought into contact.

Upon Sir William Hardy's retirement the Master of the Rolls appointed me, subject to Your Majesty's approval, to be Deputy Keeper of the Records, by deed dated the 28th January 1886, and Your Majesty was thereupon graciously pleased to approve this appointment, in conformity with the 5th section of the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the zeal for Your Majesty's service which I have found among the officers of this Department.

§ I. LEGAL AND LITERARY SEARCH ROOMS.

The number of registered applications for the production of Records, State Papers, &c., in the year 1886, has been:—

In the Legal Search Room - -	24,117
In the Literary Search Room - -	28,528
	52,645

These numbers show a great increase upon those for 1885.

The value of the stamps purchased by the public and cancelled in the Legal Search Room has been—

For 1,207 certified copies - -	683	10	0
„ stamp duty on the same - -	23	9	0
„ 351 attendances - -	110	12	6
	817	11	6

Fees to the value of 13*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* have been remitted to certain Departments of State.

The following Rules and Regulations were made by the Master of the Rolls in April 1886, and laid before both Houses of Parliament within six weeks, as required by the ninth section of the Public Record Office Act, 1838.

SUPPLEMENTARY RULES and REGULATIONS, made by the MASTER OF THE ROLLS, respecting the public use of the Records and Documents deposited in the Public Record Office.

A list of all Calendars, Catalogues, and Indexes intended for the use of the public shall be kept in each of the Search Rooms, and shall be revised from time to time. Calendars, Indexes, &c., not mentioned therein, or withdrawn therefrom, will not be produced without an order from the Deputy Keeper.

Documents which are not mentioned in any such list, and Documents in course of arrangement, will not be produced without an order from the Deputy Keeper.

Documents of exceptional value will be produced subject to such conditions as the Deputy Keeper may, in the particular case, think requisite for their safety and integrity.

These Rules and Regulations shall take effect on the 20th of April 1886.

(Signed) ESHER, M.R.

§ II. DEPARTMENTAL SEARCH ROOM.

The following table shows the number of applications and searches made on behalf of Government Departments whose archives are deposited in the Public Record Office, and the number of volumes or bundles issued or inspected:—

Department.	Applications and Searches.	Issues and Inspections.
Treasury	114	778
Home Office	13	52
Foreign Office	45	158
Colonial Office	22	124
War Office	399	7,059
Admiralty	156	1,673
Total	750	9,845

The following table shows the number of attendances of private searchers provided with permits from Government Departments to consult their archives deposited in the Public Record Office, but not open to the public, and the number of volumes or bundles inspected by them:—

Department.	Attendances.	Inspections.
Treasury	19	98
Home Office	132	439
Foreign Office	603	1,668
Colonial Office	1,630	2,589
War Office	101	743
Admiralty	384	1,434
Lord Chamberlain's Office	10	30
Total	2,879	7,001

The Secretary of State for the War Department and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have determined to extend the period for which the Records of their respective offices shall be open to the public without special permission.

The following list shows the dates after which Documents deposited in the Public Record Office by the several Departments of State cannot be consulted without formal permission from their respective heads :—

Treasury, December 31, 1759.
Home Office, December 31, 1772.
Foreign Office, October 25, 1760.
Colonial Office, October 25, 1760.
War Office, June 20, 1837.
Admiralty, December 31, 1799.
Audit Office, October 25, 1760.
Board of Trade, January 29, 1820.

§ III. TRANSFERS.

The following Books and Documents have been received at the Public Record Office during the year 1886 :—

From the Foreign Office.—Archives of the British Embassy at Paris from the year 1853 to 1855, in 147 volumes, and three volumes of Registers.

From the War Office.—Monthly Returns, Miscellany Books, &c. in continuation or completion of previous transfers, 79 volumes.

From the Admiralty.—Masters' Log Books, Nos. 11,102 to 12,263 inclusive, 1,260 volumes. "D.D. Papers" relating to Seamen's Effects, 70 Bundles.

From the Parliament Office.—Parliament Rolls, 40 & 41 Vict. to 43 & 44 Vict., 92 Rolls or Parts, with printed Index.

From the Treasury Solicitor's Office.—332 cases of accruing papers.

From the Patent Office.—Specifications and Patent Inventions of the years 1866 to 1871, in 219 Bundles.

From the Clerk of Assize of the North-eastern Circuit.—Durham Records as follows :—

	Date.
Indictments - - -	1861–1876,	47 bundles.
Recognizances - -	„ „	46 „
Costs of prosecutions -	„ „	47 „
Depositions - - -	„ „	47 „
Commissions of gaol delivery	1861–1875,	43 commissions.
Bails - - -	1876	1 bundle.
Minute Books of the Clerk of the Crown - -	1770–1784 1810–1876	10 vols.
and Book of Indictments and Calendars - -	1871–1876.

A great number of Port Books and other Documents, filling in all 34 vans, have also been removed from the Stone Tower adjoining Westminster Hall, to Nos. 13 and 14, Rolls Yard, in consequence of their former repository being required by Your Majesty's Office of Works in connexion with the restoration of the Hall. Space could not be found for them in the General Repository of Records, and, therefore, they have been placed, like other more valuable books, in the only buildings available for the purpose, buildings which have been described by one of my predecessors, Sir T. Duffus Hardy, in his first Report to Your Majesty as "old, dark, ill-ventilated, rickety, and unprotected "from fire from intervening dwelling-houses." (Twenty-third Report, p. 35.)

§ IV. CALENDARS, INVENTORIES, AND INDEXES.

Patent Rolls:

The Calendar of Patent Rolls of the reign of Edward I., of which six instalments have been printed in previous Reports, has been continued by Mr. F. S. Haydon, with the assistance of Mr. H. Rodney. The portion relating to the seventh year of the reign is printed in the Appendix (pp. 1–216). Owing to the pressure of other work, this Calendar will not be carried beyond the end of the ninth year.

French Rolls:

Mr. A. C. Ewald has made a Calendar of the French Rolls for the reign of Henry VI., in continuation of the Calendar for the reign of Henry V., given in the Appendix to the 44th Report. It is printed in the Appendix (pp. 217–450).

Privy Seals, Signed Bills, &c.:

Mr. G. J. Morris has continued the Calendar of Privy Seals, Signed Bills, &c. of the reign of Charles I., formerly preserved in the Rolls Chapel. A portion extending from the first year to the seventh inclusive was printed in the Appendix to the Forty-third Report. Another portion extending from the eighth year to the eleventh inclusive is now printed in the Appendix (pp. 450–560). Owing to the pressure of other work, this Calendar will not be continued at present, but the Privy Seals, Signed Bills, &c. for the remainder of the reign will be arranged in chronological order, so as to be available for comparison with the Patent Rolls for the same period.

ANCIENT DEEDS.

There are in the Public Record Office many thousand conveyances of land, bonds, agreements, and other deeds of the middle ages, most of which are practically inaccessible for want of a list. Many of them bear no number or other official mark. The production in the Search Rooms of trays full of small pieces of parchment, some of which have fine seals attached to them, has proved injurious to them and unsatisfactory to the public.

A Calendar or Inventory has therefore been set in hand which will eventually embrace all the ancient deeds in the Public Record Office. It will give briefly the names of the parties and the places mentioned, with dates and such other information as will enable any searcher to ascertain the nature of each Document. In order to expedite the work, which is of some magnitude, three parts of it have been undertaken simultaneously :—

Series A.—Ancient Deeds of the Treasury of the Receipt of the Exchequer, formerly preserved at the Chapter House, Westminster.

Series B.—Ancient Deeds of the Court of Augmentations.

Series C.—Ancient Deeds of the Court of Chancery, formerly preserved at the Tower of London and the Rolls' Chapel.

PAPAL BULLS :

Considerable progress has been made with an Inventory or Calendar of all the Papal Bulls preserved in the Public Record Office.

RETURN OF MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT :

The Index has been completed, and the portion of it referring to the first of the two volumes printed by order of the House of Commons has been set up in type. Owing, however, to the elaborate system adopted, the revision of the sheets for press will occupy a considerable amount of time.

The classification of unsorted documents (mentioned in § V.) has brought to light many ancient returns of Members of Parliament which were not known to exist when the list was printed. The names that occur in them will be given in an Appendix to the two volumes already printed, and will be duly noted in the Index.

INQUISITIONES POST MORTEM :

Some progress has been made with a Tabular Index of the Inquisitiones post mortem of the Courts of Chancery, Exchequer, and Wards and Liveries, between the reigns of Henry VII. and Charles I. inclusive.

EARLY CHANCERY PROCEEDINGS:

The Bills and Answers filed on the Equity side of the High Court of Chancery between the time of Richard II. and the commencement of the regular series in the reign of Elizabeth, are of considerable value for legal, topographical, and genealogical purposes. They also throw light upon the manners and customs of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries and the development of the English language. Some specimens have been given at full length in the first and second volumes of the "Calendars of the Proceedings in Chancery in "the Reign of Queen Elizabeth," printed by command of King George IV., under the direction of the Record Commission. The series has, however, hitherto been practically inaccessible to searchers for want of any list or index, and there is not even a note of the number of documents contained in each bundle. A Calendar has therefore been commenced which will give in tabular form the names of the Plaintiffs and Defendants, and the subject matters of the different suits, with the date of each or the name of the Chancellor addressed. In order that this work may not occupy an undue amount of time, or extend to too great a length, the officer to whom it has been entrusted has received directions to make every entry as brief as possible.

STAR CHAMBER PROCEEDINGS:

The Calendar of the Bills and Answers filed in the Court of Star Chamber in the reign of Henry VIII. is incomplete, extending only from A. to G. A continuation of it has been undertaken during the last year in a tabulated form similar to that adopted for the Early Chancery Proceedings mentioned above.

DIPLOMATIC DOCUMENTS:

Mr. E. Salisbury has completed the Inventory or Calendar of the Diplomatic Documents of the Treasury of the Receipt of the Exchequer. A section of it was printed in the Appendix to the 45th Report, and the remainder is now printed in the Appendix (pp. 561–619), in two parts, the first of which is a continuation of the section already printed, and the second a supplement to it.

DECREES AND ORDERS OF THE COURT OF EXCHEQUER:

A Chronological Index to the Entry Books of Decrees and Orders of the Court of Exchequer (Queen's Remembrancer's Department) of the reign of Charles I. has been begun on the system adopted for those of the reign of James I. By the end of the year 1886, the Index had been carried as far as the 22nd volume of the Third Series of Decrees and Orders.

BILLS AND ANSWERS OF THE COURT OF EXCHEQUER:

The old Latin Calendar of Bills and Answers of the Court of Exchequer (Queen's Remembrancer's Department) of the reign of Elizabeth has suffered much from age and frequent use. It is also faulty in other respects. A new Calendar has therefore been begun, which, for the sake of clearness, will be in English and in tabular form.

MINISTERS' ACCOUNTS:

The Accounts of the Ministers appointed to collect the rents and other issues of lands pertaining to the Crown are of great importance to persons engaged in legal, topographical, and genealogical researches. They are at present scattered among the records of different Courts, the greater number being among the so-called "Ancient Miscellanea" on the Queen's Remembrancer's side of the Exchequer, where they are mixed with Court Rolls and other documents; all existing lists of them are rough and imperfect. A new and exhaustive Inventory has therefore been begun, which will embrace the different series of Accounts of the Ministers of Crown Lands, and give references by means of which any of them will be easily found.

LETTERS AND PAPERS, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC, OF THE REIGN OF HENRY VIII.:

Mr. J. Gairdner, who has been assisted by Mr. C. T. Martin and Mr. R. H. Brodie, has proceeded with the important Calendar of all public documents in England relating to the reign of Henry VIII. A ninth volume was published in 1886 (see § VIII.).

STATE PAPERS, RELATING TO IRELAND, OF THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH:

Mr. H. C. Hamilton has continued his Calendar, of which four volumes have been published. The materials for a fifth volume were almost ready at the end of 1886.

STATE PAPERS, DOMESTIC SERIES, OF THE REIGN OF CHARLES I.:

Mr. W. D. Hamilton has proceeded with his Calendar, which will before long reach the point at which Mrs. Everett Green began her Calendar of State Papers of the period of the Commonwealth. A volume was in the press at the end of 1886.

STATE PAPERS, COLONIAL SERIES:

Mr. W. Noel Sainsbury has collected materials for a Calendar of State Papers relating to America and the West Indies between the years 1669 and 1675.

TREASURY PAPERS:

Mr. J. Redington has prepared a Calendar of the Treasury Papers down to the year 1728, in continuation of the five volumes already published.

ADMIRALTY RECORDS:

A List has been made of the Masters' Logs from A.D. 1800 to 1885, consisting of 12,263 volumes.

Lists have also been made of Seamen's Wills from A.D. 1786 to 1882, of papers relating to Seamen's Effects, of Medical Journals from A.D. 1820 to 1841, and of Ticket Office Pay Books from A.D. 1780 to 1875.

§ V. CLASSIFICATION AND ARRANGEMENT.

A great deal of time and attention has been devoted during the past year under my special direction to the classification of documents hitherto unsorted, and the identification of documents insufficiently described. The accumulation of documents in the General Repository of Records has been so rapid, that, despite all that has been done by the officers of this Department since its establishment in the early part of Your Majesty's reign, there still remains a great number of volumes, bundles, packages, and boxes whose contents have not been ascertained. Very many of them are not enumerated in any list, or officially stamped. An earnest attempt is being made to reduce them to some order, and to render them eventually accessible to the public. Certain miscellaneous documents of the Chancery Division have been dealt with first, as being in special need of arrangement. One hundred and forty large sacks which had not been examined since they were brought from the Tower of London, and twenty-seven large sacks found above the vaulting of the Rolls Chapel, have been emptied, and their contents have been distributed into classes according to their nature. As a result, large additions will be made to the series of Chancery Proceedings, Ministers' Accounts, Royal Letters, Ancient Deeds, Court Rolls, Petitions, and to other series. Inasmuch, however, as most of these mediæval documents require to be flattened, repaired, stamped and numbered, some time must necessarily elapse before they can be made available for consultation in the Search Rooms.

§ VI. OPERATIONS BY WORKMEN.

The following table shows the principal operations of the year 1886:—

—	Rolls or Files.	Bundles.	Membranes.	Leaves.	Volumes.
Numbered -	—	—	11,585	23,111	2
Flattened -	—	93	298	175	—
Repaired -	—	—	483	11,328	40
Sized - -	—	—	57	13,768	—
Guarded -	—	—	30	22,941	—
Collated -	—	—	300	22,716	—
Sewed - -	—	—	678	17,960	2
Bound - -	—	—	—	—	106
Ticketed -	580	2,062	83	—	133
Stamped -	—	225	140,255	82,293

This table does not include the dusting, preliminary flattening, and ticketing of the contents of the sacks mentioned in § V. The classes to which most attention has been given have been the so-called Ancient Miscellanea of the Exchequer (Q.R.); Ministers' Accounts; Feet of Fines; Subsidies; Certificates of Residence; Star Chamber Proceedings; Letters and Papers of the reign of Henry VIII.; State Papers, Scotland, Ireland, and Foreign; War Office, Discharge Papers, and "V. O. S. Papers."

§ VII. THE ACT 40 & 41 VICT. c. 55.

In accordance with the Rules approved by Your Majesty in Council on the 25th of July 1882, they have proceeded with the examination of Records of the Court of Exchequer, of which there purport to be lists in the Appendix to the Twentieth Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records (pp. 21–77). These collections are very large, and require a very careful inspection in detail. Only a brief Schedule of the valueless documents among them has, therefore, been as yet prepared. It is the Seventh Schedule of Documents of Courts mentioned in the third section of the Public Record Office Act, 1838. This was laid before both Houses of Parliament on Monday the 30th of August 1886. Inasmuch, however, as Parliament was prorogued on Saturday the 25th of September, there is a doubt whether the Schedule was submitted to the two Houses for the period required by the Act. It was therefore resolved that it should be presented again in 1887.

The selection of worthless Admiralty Documents commenced in the year 1885, in accordance with the terms of the Schedule relating to the Administration of Wages and Effects of Deceased Seamen and Marines, has now been completed. Nearly all the Documents so selected have been forwarded to Your Majesty's Stationery Office for destruction.

In pursuance of the first two of the Rules approved by Your Majesty in Council on 22nd May 1883, a First Schedule of Valueless Documents existing or accruing in the Office of Your Majesty's Postmaster General (mentioned in the Forty-Seventh Report of the Deputy Keeper) has been under further consideration. It will be noticed in a subsequent Report.

In addition to the Rules printed in the Forty-Fourth Report of the Deputy Keeper (pp. ix. and x.) and the Forty-Fifth Report (pp. viii. and ix.), an extending Rule applicable to Departments of the Government (of which Rule Your Majesty's approbation was declared by Order in Council on the 26th day of June 1886) was published in the London Gazette of July 2, 1886. The following is a copy of it:—

"The Public Record Office Act, 1877 (40 & 41 Vict. c. 55.), for the Disposal of Valueless Documents.

"Schedule of a Further Additional Rule made by the Right Honourable Baron Esher, Master of the Rolls, approved by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, and further approved by the Heads of the Departments enumerated below, who have severally, in witness of such approval, signed copies of the said Rule, as applicable to their several Departments.

"I, the Right Honourable William Baliol, Baron Esher, of Esher, in the county of Surrey, Master of the Rolls, in exercise of the power conferred upon me by the first section of the Public Record Office Act, 1877, do hereby make the Rule following:—

"The Rules entitled 'Further Additional Rules' for the disposal of valueless documents of Departments of the Government, of which Rules Her Majesty declared her approbation by Order in Council on the 22nd day of May 1883, shall extend and be applied to documents of the Departments herein-after mentioned.

"ESHER, M.R.

"30th March 1886.

"The foregoing Rule is approved:—

"On behalf of Her Majesty's Treasury - - -	Cyril Flower. G. Leveson-Gower.
"The National Portrait Gallery - - -	George Scharf.
"The Pay Office of the Supreme Court of Judicature -	Geo. W. Kellner.
"The Charity Commission -	Wm. Seymour Fitzgerald.
"The Supreme Court of Judicature - - -	Selborne, C.
"The Science and Art Department - - -	J. F. D. Donnelly.
"The Broadmoor Criminal Lunatic Asylum - -	W. Orange.
"The Lunacy Commission -	James Wilkes."

A Schedule of Valueless Documents in the Office of Your Majesty's Paymaster General for the business of the Supreme Court of Judicature has been prepared in accordance with the Rule above printed, and has been finally passed by the Inspecting Officers. It will be noticed in a subsequent Report.

In previous Reports of the Deputy Keeper some mention has been made of the quantity of worthless Documents destroyed and of the extent to which the Public Record Office has consequently been relieved from the encumbrance and expense which they would have caused. The Second Report of the Controller of Your Majesty's Stationery Office (pp. 4 and 17) shows that the process of tearing the papers (which is essential because the Documents must, according to the Rules, be effectually destroyed) gives permanent employment to a number of persons, and that the waste is sold for the purpose of being converted into new paper. A point of greater importance, however, is that Documents of permanent value will become more readily accessible when freed from worthless surroundings.

In order that there may be a permanent record of the different classes of Documents condemned as valueless, formerly belonging to Courts mentioned in the third section of the Public Record Office Act, 1838, I have inserted in the Appendix (p. 620) the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Schedules relating thereto. The First Schedule has been already printed by order of the House of Commons in 1882 (H.C. Paper No. 103), and the Second Schedule in 1883 (C.–3565, price 2½*d.*).

§ VIII. CALENDARS PUBLISHED.

The following Volumes have been published during the year 1886:—

(1.) Calendar of Documents relating to Ireland, in the Public Record Office, London. A.D. 1302–1307. Begun by the late Mr. H. S. Sweetman; continued by Mr. G. F. Handcock.

The Documents noticed in this Volume are, in their general character, similar to those noticed in the four preceding instalments of the Calendar, the chief exception being a long return giving the valuation of all the dioceses in Ireland. Selections from this return have been printed before, but its great value for topographical and ecclesiastical purposes seems to justify its publication in extenso in this Volume.

(2.) Calendar of Letters, Despatches, and State Papers, relating to the Negotiations between England and Spain, preserved in the Archives at Simancas, and elsewhere. Edited by Don Pascual de Gayangos. Vol. V., Part I.—1534–1535.

This part covers the whole of the years 1534 and 1535, a period during which Henry VIII.'s revolt from papal authority may be said to have been completed. The threat of excommunication had not been carried out at the time of Pope Clement's death in September 1534; various causes delayed the execution of the sentence during the following year, and the death of Queen Katherine on 7th January 1536, before the final term of four months allowed to Henry in the "bull of deposition" to return to the obedience of the Holy See, suspended the matter altogether. This Volume illustrates rather the foreign complications which arose from this peculiar position occupied by Henry among the monarchs of Europe than his own government of England, though the London letters of Chapuys have great importance on both heads. Invasions by the Turks, the ambitious designs of Francis on Italy, England's fluctuating relations with Scotland, the spread of the Reformation, and the rebellion in Ireland are prominent matters during these two years upon which more or less light is thrown by the Documents calendared by Don Pascual de Gayangos.

(3.) Calendar of Letters and Papers, Foreign and Domestic, of the Reign of Henry VIII., preserved in the Public Record Office, the British Museum, &c. Edited by Mr. J. Gairdner. Vol. IX.—1535, August to December.

The five months over which the State Papers calendared in this Volume extend were among the most anxious of Henry's reign. The Pope's jurisdiction had been abolished, and the Royal supremacy over the Church established by Act of Parliament. At home the King had nothing to fear from the resolute assertion of his authority; but abroad no effort was spared by the Pope and his legates to induce the Emperor and Francis to pick a quarrel with him. Francis, however, still showed himself a cordial ally with England, and the letters relating to the mission on which he sent the Bailly of Troyes to Henry are among the most important in the Volume. Reports of the visitations of the monasteries now begin to form a prominent feature among the State Papers of this time, and much new matter concerning the religious houses, more especially in Wiltshire, Sussex, and Kent, is brought to light; the notices of the visitations of Oxford and Cambridge are also valuable.

The number of volumes of Calendars sold for Your Majesty's Stationery Office during the year 1886 has been 690, making a total of 16,114.

At the end of the year there were six volumes of this series in the press, or in the binders' hands.

The following volumes were issued during the year 1886:—

(1.) Cartularies of St. Mary's Abbey, Dublin, &c., preserved in the Bodleian Library and British Museum. Edited by Mr. J. T. Gilbert. Vol. II.

These Cartularies, published for the first time, are the only documents of that description known to exist of the ancient establishments of the Cistercian Order in Ireland; two being of St. Mary's Abbey, Dublin, and one of the House at Dunbrody, Wexford.

(2.) REGISTRUM EPISTOLARUM FRATRIS J. PECKHAM, ARCHIEPISCOPI CANTUARIENSIS. Vol. III. Edited by Mr. C. T. MARTIN.

This volume continues the series of Archbishop Peckham's letters from July 1284 to 1292, the year of his death. The earlier letters were written from Wales when he was occupied in settling the ecclesiastical affairs of that recently conquered principality; later ones show his action with regard to the spread of erroneous opinions at Oxford, and the visitation of monasteries where discipline was notoriously lax, as notably at Christchurch, Canterbury.

(3.) CHRONICLE OF THE ANCIENT ABBEY OF RAMSEY, from the Cartulary of that Abbey, in the Public Record Office. Edited by the Rev. W. D. Macray.

This forms an important supplement to the Cartulary of Ramsey Abbey, also in course of publication in this series. The Chronicle throws more light on the inner life of the Abbey, the characters and doings of its successive Abbots, its gradual increase in wealth and in sacred relics, the building of the church, &c. Some interesting Abbots' letters are also printed.

(4.) CARTULARY OF THE ANCIENT BENEDICTINE ABBEY OF RAMSEY, from the MS. in the Public Record Office. Vol. II. Edited by Mr. W. H. Hart and the Rev. P. A. Lyons.

This volume is chiefly filled with inquisitions and grants of lands forming part of the possessions of the Abbey, constitutions of the Archbishops concerning its governance. It contains also many Papal bulls confirming privileges, &c.

(5.) YEAR BOOKS OF THE REIGN OF EDWARD III. Years 13, 14. Edited and translated by Mr. L. O. Pike, Barrister-at-Law.

This volume helps to fill up the gap which extends in the old printed Year Books from the 10th to the 17th year of Edward III. Its contents, like those of preceding volumes, are reports in Norman-French of cases argued and decided in the Courts of Common Law, which may be considered to a great extent as the "lex non scripta" of England, held in the highest veneration by the ancient sages of the law. They are also worthy of attention for their biographical and historical information as well as for the light which they throw on ancient manners and customs.

In his elaborate preface to the work the editor deals very fully with the more important cases before the Courts in the two years.

(6.) Polychronicon Ranulphi Higden, with Trevisa's Translation. Vol. IX. Edited by the Rev. J. R. Lumby, D.D.

A great portion of this, the concluding volume, is composed of glossaries and an index to the whole work. Some additions to the text have, however, been made from an important continuation of Higden which has been found in a MS. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. This opens with the coronation of Edward III., and closes in the year 1394.

The number of volumes of Chronicles and Memorials sold for Your Majesty's Stationery Office, during the year 1886, has been 1,353, making a total of 44,784.

At the end of the year there were 14 works belonging to this series in the press or in the binders' hands, and 10 others in course of preparation. The material reduction of the amount allowed for "Calendars and Historical Documents" has prevented the undertaking of any fresh work during the past year.

§ X. RESEARCHES IN FOREIGN ARCHIVES.

Rome:

Mr. W. H. Bliss has continued his researches in the Vatican Archives and in different Palaces in Rome. During the year 1886 he forwarded to this office 10 bundles of extracts and transcripts of documents relating to the history of Great Britain and Ireland. A summary of his proceedings is given in the Appendix to this Report (p. 643).

Venice:

The investigation of State papers and manuscripts relating to English affairs at Venice and elsewhere in Northern Italy has been suspended since the death of Mr. Rawdon Brown in August 1883. His executor, however, has arranged his transcripts and has from them prepared for the press a Calendar for the years 1558 to 1561, which will be continued until the materials are sufficient for a volume of the ordinary size.

Paris:

The late M. Armand Baschet was engaged from February 1870 until September 1885, under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, in collecting transcripts of diplomatic and other correspondence in the French Archives, chiefly relating to English affairs from Henry VIII. to the death of Queen Anne. Lists of the transcripts transmitted from Paris in each year have been printed in the Annual Reports of the Deputy Keeper to Your Majesty. The grant for this service ceased at the end of September 1885; M. Baschet at the time had not transcribed all the important papers within the period above indicated, but he expressed his readiness to complete the work without remuneration. His death, however, in January 1886, left his collection of transcripts still slightly deficient.

SWEDEN:

In 1881, 1882, and 1883 Mr. W. H. Bliss was instructed, during the period that the Vatican Library was closed, to examine and report upon documents relating to English affairs preserved in the public archives of Stockholm. Reports on the result of his investigations will be found in the 43rd, 44th, and 45th Reports of the Deputy Keeper to Your Majesty. Since 1883 a small sum of money has been applied annually, with the sanction of the Treasury, to the purpose of obtaining transcripts of the many documents important for the illustration of English history which had been selected by Mr. Bliss. A large collection of these transcripts is deposited in the Public Record Office, and it is estimated that another two or three years at the same rate of progress will be required to complete the work.

SPAIN, BRUSSELS, and VIENNA:

Don Pascual de Gayangos has continued his researches. (See § VIII.)

§ XI. HISTORICAL MANUSCRIPTS COMMISSION.

Your Majesty was graciously pleased to appoint me to be one of Your Commissioners on Historical Manuscripts by Warrant under Your Royal Sign Manual, bearing date the 24th of March 1886.

Mr. J. J. Cartwright, a Senior Clerk of this Department, has continued to serve as Assistant Secretary, and other assistance has been afforded to the Commission, as mentioned in previous Reports.

All which is humbly submitted to Your Majesty.

Dated this 8th day of August 1887.

(Signed) H. C. MAXWELL LYTE,

Deputy Keeper of the Public Records.

I humbly certify to Your Majesty that this Report is made by the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, pursuant to the 17th Section of the Statute 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94.

(Signed) ESHER,

Master of the Rolls.

No. 2.—Calendar of the French Rolls: Henry VI.

The contents of these Rolls have been catalogued, as they form a useful supplement to the French and Norman Rolls of Henry V. already calendared (see Reports of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, 41, 42, and 44, App.). The entries now for the first time made public chiefly relate to protections granted by the sovereign to such persons as were then serving in the different retinues of the nobles, knights, and esquires employed in the conquest of France; to licences to English merchants to trade abroad; to safe-conducts to foreigners visiting England, or to Englishmen travelling on the continent; to visits of inspection from the heads of various Roman Catholic orders to the convents and monasteries in England; to the diplomatic negotiations then pending between England and France, or between England and Burgundy; to pilgrimages to the Holy Land or to the famous shrine of St. James of Galicia (Santiago de Compostella); to the trading operations necessary for the ransom of prisoners, and to the grant of letters of attorney to Englishmen having business abroad.

The most important of these entries relates to the export of wool and the organisation of the staple at Calais. The history of Calais has yet to be written, but to the future historian of our once most valued foreign possession the contents of the French Rolls prove so important as to make their study indispensable. In them will be found the nature of the establishment for the sale of wool at Calais, the names of the officials who presided over the market, the story of the dissensions that so frequently arose between the authorities of the staple and those of the town, the sliding scale of customs levied upon the shipping of wool from England to Calais, the expenses and duties of the garrison at the Castle, the occasional lawless proceedings of the soldiery, owing to their pay, chiefly derived from the dues on wool, being in arrears, the sums spent on the fortifications of the town, and various other details of historical interest not to be met with in printed books.

From a study of these Rolls it is evident that the possession of Calais was looked upon as a matter of the greatest import to England. Ever since its surrender to our third Edward in 1347 no inducement was neglected to transform the town into a purely English colony. The French were expelled from its walls, whilst Englishmen were tempted by special privileges with regard to trade, and by immunity from taxation, to cross the Channel and occupy the deserted shops and houses. No foreigner was permitted to have a voice in the management of the affairs of the town; he could not even enter within its gates without first binding himself to obey the strict ordinances then in force for the better safety of Calais; he was forbidden to have freehold property, to rent a house, or to keep a tavern; nay, even when he came to the place for the sale or purchase of merchandise, it was enacted that he should be lodged in certain quarters only—these quarters being principally the houses of the brokers of the staple. At this date two distinct authorities presided over the affairs of Calais. The management and control of the town were entrusted to a mayor, annually elected, and twelve aldermen; whilst to a second and entirely separate corporation was confided the regulation of all matters touching the staple of wool.

From the days of our early Henries and Edwards, restrictions upon the shipping of wool from England to the continent are of frequent occurrence in the Public Records; interdicts which, as a study of the French Rolls plainly proves, were in full force in the days of Henry VI. Yet this prohibition was intended less for the protection of English industry than for offering the Crown opportunities of conferring patronage, or ministering to the wants of an exhausted exchequer. An inspection of these Rolls shows that the King was often in the habit of granting licences to export wool either as free gifts or on payment of money; in the one case favourites benefited, in the other merchants had to pay handsomely for the privilege. It is also apparent that when the Crown was indebted to a subject for pecuniary advances, the debt was frequently liquidated by a royal permission to the creditor to export wool without payment of the customary dues. To this arrangement objection, as will be seen from the entries calendared here, was occasionally taken.

During the reign of Henry the Sixth, the two chief agents for the shipping of wool from the ports of England to the continent were the merchants of the German Hansa in London (Gildhalla Teutonicorum), and the merchants of the staple. To the merchants of the German Hansa, better known in history by the name of the "Merchants of the Steelyard," and occasionally by that of the "Easterlings," special privileges had been granted by King John, which were afterwards confirmed by successive sovereigns. The dealings of this Association, as well as the confirmation of various privileges, will be found in the French Rolls.

The five chief or staple commodities of the kingdom at this date were wool, wool fells, leather, lead, and tin, to which were occasionally added butter, cheese, and cloth. These articles could only be sold for exportation by a corporation called the Merchants of the Staple, and were to be shipped from such towns only as were then known as towns of the staple. These towns were Bristol, Canterbury, Chichester, Exeter, Lincoln, London, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Norwich, and York, in England; Carmarthen in Wales; Cork, Drogheda, and Dublin in Ireland; and Calais and Middleburgh on the continent. The part played by these towns in the commercial activity of the country is frequently alluded to in the French Rolls. With the exception of the merchants of the Hansa and the Staple, and of those private individuals especially licensed by the sovereign—the latter an exception demanding the widest latitude—no English subject was permitted under severe penalties to export wool. Upon their first introduction, objection was made to the establishment of staple towns at Calais and Middleburgh, since it was affirmed that they tended to prosper foreign countries at the expense of our own. The Great Ordinance of the Staple [27 Edw. III.] recites that by holding abroad the staple of "those wools of England which are the sovereign merchandise and jewel of "our realm, the people of foreign lands are enriched to the damage and impoverish-"ment of the commonalty of our said realm." This prejudice, however, soon disappeared when it became evident that the creation of the staple of wool in foreign towns worked no hurt to English commerce. The two great objects of the staple towns, as a study of these Rolls plainly testifies, were to encourage the visits of foreigners for the purchase of wool, and to confine the trade to places over which the King's officers had entire control, so that any fraud against the customs could the better be checked.

It was only natural that the merchants of the Hansa and of the Staple, in the enjoyment of a monopoly, should view the system of licences to export wool granted by the Crown to favourites and others as a grave interference with their just rights. More than once in the French Rolls opposition is raised by the legitimate merchants to the exercise of this prerogative. The Statute of 27 Hen. VI. recites that the customs at Calais had greatly decreased "by reason of licences granted by letters "patent and by misuse thereof, so that the said customs pass not yearly twelve "thousand pounds, which is but little in comparison to that they have been here-"tofore"; and accordingly it enacts that "all licences thereafter granted shall be "void, and the grantees be out of the King's protection, and that any of the King's "subjects may seize wool exported elsewhither than to Calais, and may keep them "to his own use." This Statute was, however, virtually a dead letter, owing to the long list of exceptions which was left in the hands of the Sovereign, and of which, as an inspection of the French Rolls shows, he fully availed himself.

Nor was the shipping of wool from English ports limited to the export of the raw material. In many of our towns the manufacture of woollen cloths was a flourishing industry, and a brisk trade was accordingly carried on with the continent in the sale of such articles. Entries relating to the export of woollen cloths are of frequent occurrence in the French Rolls. "Draper" as the designation of an individual petitioning the Crown to trade abroad is often to be met with. The Company of Drapers was incorporated in 1364, though so early as the twelfth century it was already a community holding lands. Originally the word draper signified the manufacturer and not the dealer in cloth; the verb "to drape" including the whole business of clothmaking. After a time "clothier" came to be a specific term for the maker of cloth, though draper was still used both for the manufacturer and the vendor. The designations "clothworker," "cloth-shearer," and "shearman" to be found in these Rolls signified the dresser and finisher of the fabric. The Shearmen's Company was an offshoot of the Drapers, but it did not receive a separate incorporation until 1480. The Tailors date as a chartered association from 1399. Originally they made all kinds of apparel, whether of wool or linen, and also the padding of armour, whence comes their description in several early documents as "linen armourers." Upon their development into dealers of cloth they were termed "Merchant Tailors," and it is under that designation that their names appear in the French Rolls. In addition to drapers, clothworkers, and merchant tailors, other trades are of occasional mention in these Rolls; weavers, dyers, and worsted workers being the chief. Worsted workers inhabited the village of Worsted in Norfolk, and hence the name of their fabrics; they were principally the descendants of the Flemish clothweavers invited over to England by Edward III. and established in the country under his protection. Devonshire, as appears from these Rolls, was also a conspicuous county at this date for the manufacture of wool, the hose of Totnes being then an article of celebrity throughout the kingdom. This industry did not appear in Worcestershire until a later date.

No. 2.—Calendar of French Rolls: Henry VI.—continued.

Like wool, gold, either as money or in plate, was not permitted to be taken out of the kingdom without special sanction. Hence licences, such as the following, are of frequent occurrence:—

"Licence to Sir John Colvyle, going to the general Council at Basle, to take with him 500*l.* in money, plate, and jewels. Nov. 26, 1432."

During this reign, the eighteenth General Council was transferred from Pavia to Sienna, and afterwards from Sienna to Basle, where it assembled July 23, 1431. The chief objects of its deliberations were the reunion of the Latin and Greek Churches, and a general reformation of the Church. Licences to the English clergy to attend this council are a common feature in these Rolls.

Numerous entries relate to the ransom of prisoners. It appears that captives—whether English prisoners confined in France, or French prisoners confined in England—were permitted, either by themselves or through their agents, to trade between the two countries in order to obtain the sums necessary for their freedom. Entries of the following nature are often met with on the French Rolls:—

"Safe conduct for Lawrence Reynford, trading between Normandy and England, to defray his ransom. Dec. 23, 1450."

"Licence to Hamo Richer to trade to France to defray the ransom of John Joseph, a prisoner. May 18, 1451."

Visits by foreign heads of houses to the religious orders then established in England are also among the more important class of entries recorded on these Rolls. For example:—

Safe conduct for Heluncus Amoris, prior general of the monastery of Clarelieu, of the Order of St. Augustine near Huy, in the diocese of Liege, coming to England to inspect the monasteries of the Order of St. Augustine. Oct. 18, 1430.

Licence to John Fassy, prior general of the Carmelites, to visit the houses of the Order in England. June 10, 1442.

Licence to the abbot of Morimund to visit the houses of the Cistercian Order in England, with the aid of the abbots of Waverley and Combe, in the province of Canterbury, and of the abbots of Fountains and Byland, in the province of York. July 13, 1445.

Protection to Wm. de Sutfania, vicar general and visitor of the Order of Crutched Friars, coming to England to inspect the Order in this country. Mar. 24, 1457.

The following list, compiled from the entries in this Calendar, of such Englishmen as at this time held posts in Normandy and elsewhere during our conquest of certain portions of France will prove useful to the historian of the period:—

Aumoner Walter, high bailiff of Mantes and Oye.
Bealknap Philip, receiver and procurator general of Guisnes.

Whityngham, Rob., master of the Mint at Calais.
Wodevylle, Rich., captain of Caen.
York, Rich., duke of, governor of France and Normandy.

Among the more curious entries, illustrating certain social and commercial features of the time, to be found upon the French Rolls the following may serve as specimens:—

Licence to Lawrence Spring, of London, cheesemonger, to export 40,000 rabbit skins to Flanders. Feb. 5, 1431.

Permission given to Charles Myn to send back to the Low Countries such portion of the wine saved from the wreck of his Flemish hulks as he has been unable to sell in England. June 8, 1435.

Licence to Nicholas Hisham, a merchant of York, to sail to Prussia with four ships in quest of woods for spears and bows; there being a scarcity of such wood in England. Aug. 6, 1436.

Licence to certain people in Cornwall, owing to the scarcity of corn, to trade with the Island of Ushant, France. Nov. 7, 1437.

Licence to John Chirche, agent of the King of Portugal, to send 60 sacks of Cotswold wool to Florence, to be made up into cloth for the Portuguese sovereign. Mar. 21, 1438.

Safe-conduct for 60 persons to be brought from Holland and Zealand, by John de Shiedame, to manufacture salt in England. Feb. 8, 1440.

Licence to John de Kent, of London, to ship to Norway or Prussia certain casks of unsound wine which he cannot sell in England. Feb. 26, 1442.

Licence to Felix Fagman and Alexander Palestrell, merchants of Milan, to send wool from Chichester to Normandy, free of duty, on account of their having paid for certain indulgences granted by the Pope to Eton College. Dec. 5, 1444.

Exemption of the subjects of the duke of Milan trading to England from the statute of Reading, placing foreign merchants under supervision, and requiring that their goods be sold by a certain time. Jan. 28, 1445.

Protection to John Raulynward, of Cologne, coming to work with his men in the mines of Cornwall. Nov. 7, 1447.

Licence to John duke of Norfolk, in fulfilment of the vows he took during the late illness of the King, to make a pilgrimage to the holy places in Ireland, Scotland, Britanny, Picardy, Cologne, Rome, and Jerusalem. Aug. 24, 1457.

No. 2.—Calendar of French Rolls: Henry VI.—continued.

Licence to George Morsteyn, a merchant of Cracow, Poland, to bring a ruby weighing 214 carats with him to England for sale; should the jewel not be sold he is to take it back to his own country without the payment of any dues, but not before showing it to the King and Queen. June 8, 1458.

Licence to David Ferrour to buy three horses in England, not exceeding 100 shillings per horse, for exportation abroad. Aug. 28, 1458.

Licence to the prior of John of Bethlehem at Shene to export wool in compensation for the four pipes of wine annually granted to the house by the King, not having been presented during the last five years. Sept. 20, 1458.

Safe-conduct, at the request of the abbot of St. Peter's, Westminster, for the "Janet" of Caen, laden with stone from Caen, to repair the building of St. Peter's. May 9, 1460.

The entries upon the French Rolls are written in Latin and Norman French, the greater portion being in Latin.

* In the summer of 1456 the French took advantage of the civil dissensions in England to invade the country. A force under Sir Peter de Bressy landed on our shores. "This lusty captain," says the chronicler Hall, "sailing all the coast of Sussex and Kent durst not once "take land till he arrived in the Downs and there having by a certain espial, perfit notice, that "the town of Sandwich was neither peopled nor fortified, because that a little before, the chief "rulers of the town were from thence departed, for to avoid the pestilential plague, which sore "there infected, and slew the people, entered the haven, spoiled the town, and after such poor "stuff as he there found rifled and taken, he fearing an assembly of the country shortly "returned."

No. 3.—Privy Seals, Signed Bills, &c. (Chancery Series), Calendar of, for the Reign of Charles I.—(continued from Appendix I. to the 43rd Annual Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records).

 The arrangement is chronological, the principal date, given in the fourth column, being that of the Privy Seal, as shown by the Teste, or, in its absence, the Chancellor's Recepi, the date of delivery. In the case of a second Teste the arrangement follows the earlier date. Where two dates are given the later is the date of the delivery to the Chancellor, and is usually that of the Letters Patent founded upon the Privy Seal. Each document is distinguished by a number indicating its place in the regnal year, signified in the first column. The second column is reserved for the commissioners, grantees, or persons in whose interest the instrument was issued, and, in case of Liveries and Licences of entry on lands, the proximate ancestor from whom the lands descended, together with the date of his death as found by the office. The following abbreviations are used :—

P. S. Privy Seal.
S. P. Signed Proclamation.
C. L. Commissioner's Lease.
B. C. W. Bill of the Court of Wards (Licence of entry).
S. B. Signed Bill.
T. L. Tobacco Licence.

41	1138	1562. August 23.	Oath of Anthony du Prat, Lord of Nanthouillet and Provost of Paris, sent into England as hostage by Charles King of France, to observe the treaty concluded 2 April 1559 as a faithful hostage. Greenwich, 23 August, 4 Eliz. [S.P., Foreign, Eliz., 1562, No. 525.]
41	1139	1562. September 22.	Offensive alliance concluded by the Queen of England with Louis de Bourbon, Prince of Condé, against the Guise faction in France. 1. The Prince of Condé undertakes to give up Havre to the Queen's lieutenant, the Queen to deliver three sufficient hostages to the captain of Havre at Dieppe, to be entrusted to the Elector Palatine of the Rhine or some other German prince for safe custody till these articles are signed and completed. 2. The Queen to pay 100,000 gold crowns to the Prince at Frankfort or elsewhere, viz., 70,000 crowns as soon as Havre is given up to her, and the rest within a month afterwards. 3. Besides 3,000 men to guard Havre, the Queen will send 3,000 more to guard Rouen, Dieppe, &c., to be continued till they have cost 40,000 gold crowns, unless the Prince make terms with his adversaries before then; which amount is to include the sums paid by the Queen to the captain of Havre from August 31 last till Havre is put into her hands. If the lieutenant of Havre cannot send these troops to Rouen the Queen will send 20,000 gold crowns to the Prince in Normandy; and if she does not spend the 20,000 crowns over Dieppe because the citizens there will not admit her troops, the rest of that sum of 20,000 crowns shall be paid to the Prince. 4. The Queen will allow the subjects of the King of France to enjoy their goods and liberty in the above towns. Havre and Dieppe to be cities of refuge for subjects of the King of France who are persecuted for their religion, or who serve the King under the leadership of the Prince of Condé; though the Queen's captain at Havre may prevent the entry there of such a number of men as he thinks will be prejudicial to its security. 5. The Queen will restore Havre to the King of France as soon as, by the efforts of the Prince of Condé, Calais and its neighbourhood is restored to her as agreed by the treaty of 2 April 1559; and as soon as possible the 140,000 gold crowns shall be repaid the Queen without interest. 6. The Queen shall not restore Havre to the King of France, nor the King Calais to the Queen, without the cognisance of the Prince of Condé, and without compensation having been made to the nobles who lost their possessions through Havre being made over to the Queen. 7. The captain of Havre to be allowed to remove 12 French ships now there with their armaments, which were not intended for its defence. Neither party shall make a treaty prejudicial to the other without their consent. Signed by Louis of Bourbon and his confederates. 22 September, 4 Eliz.
41	1151	1562. [December.]	Gaspar de Coligny, Admiral of France, and his confederates renew the alliance offensive and defensive with Queen Elizabeth concluded September 22, 1562, by Louis de Bourbon, Prince of Condé, now in the hands of his enemies. 45	1205	——	Fragments of diplomatic documents of various dates.

PART II.

In issuing this second and concluding part of the calendar of Diplomatic Documents a few observations may be made by way of explanation.

It will be observed that many of the documents that follow are diplomatic in a somewhat subordinate sense, as compared with those previously calendared; they consist not only of treaties between England and other countries, but also of complaints of infractions of treaties; petitions for redress of injuries inflicted by the English on the shipping of other States or vice versâ; bonds for money lent to foreign Princes by the King of England or his people, &c. They are nevertheless diplomatic in a real sense, exhibiting a clearer and more detailed view of the relations, whether friendly or hostile, between England and foreign countries.

In the present calendar the dates previously assigned to undated documents have in some cases been altered, further evidence having been collected leading to the conclusion that they belong to other periods than those to which they were before supposed to relate. Thus, for example, the document Box 48, No. 1289, was in the old list assigned to "Henry VI. (?)"; but that it belongs to the reign of Edward II., and more particularly to the year 1325, appears from the following considerations:—1. John Lenfant was appointed Seneschal of Ponthieu in 1312 (Rymer, O. iii. 351). 2. The Earl of Kent, "the King's brother," is spoken of, and the only two Earls of Kent so related were Edmund brother of Edw. II., and Thomas de Holland brother of Ric. II. 3. Edmund Earl of Kent was sent to receive into the King's peace the people of Gascony and others who had joined the French in April 1325 (O. iv. 143). 4. In October, 1325, Arnaldur Gullielmi de Restrino, lord of Lescun, and Peter de Galiciano were employed together on diplomatic missions to the south of France (O. iv. 176, 179). 5. In 1325 and 1326 a dispute occurred with France as to the homage to be done by the King of England to the King of France, and the latter seized a portion of the Duchy of Aquitain (O. iv. 156, 197). This instance will serve to illustrate the principles that have been followed in assigning a date to undated documents.

The documents contained in the present portion of the calendar make the series of diplomatic documents very complete, by supplying many gaps in the first part. Thus the three documents, dated 5 December, 1440, that appear in Part I., together with the deed Box 49, No. 1304, of the same date now calendared, form a complete series of receipts for four consecutive years for a pension allowed to Louis Count Palatine of the Rhine by the King of England in satisfaction of an annuity and certain dower money due to the late Count Palatine with his wife. So, again, some of the present documents throw much light on treaties or negotiations concerning which some papers were already printed in Rymer or elsewhere. Thus at O. ix. 382 will be found letters from Edward III. to the Seneschal of Aquitain, the Constable of Bordeaux, and other officials, directing them to arrange the disputes between Joan lady of Armenhac and others; and at O. ix. 472 the commission to the same Sir William Clifford to receive from lady Joan certain lands she had ceded to the King. These documents are dated 15 Aug. 1416 and 24 July 1417 respectively: and in these diplomatic documents now calendared occurs (Box 49, No. 1353) the convention, dated between the above two dates, 18 January 1416–17, concluded between the Constable of Bordeaux and lady Joan whereby the latter cedes certain lands to the former, to which cession the Commission of 24 July 1417 refers. The history of these transactions, otherwise imperfect, is completed by the insertion of this Diplomatic Document.

Attention may be drawn to the fact that these documents are calendared at greater length than those in the former part. The reasons for this are many:—(1.) Few of them are printed by Rymer or elsewhere, as compared with those previously calendared: (2.) Many of these documents are already in bad condition, and before long may become still more illegible, so that a full calendar seemed the best way of preserving their contents: (3.) Being so decayed any one inspecting their contents must of necessity spend a great deal of time and trouble in deciphering them, which it is hoped may be saved, at least in some cases, by the full abstracts now given: (4.) Some papers seem to have been derived from foreign sources, and either no copy ever existed amongst the Archives of England, or, if they did so exist, are now lost. This will perhaps explain the fact that such documents do not appear in Rymer, nor do any of the papers printed by him give any indication of their existence. Specimen documents of this kind will be found in Box 50, Nos. 1392 and 1396. These are both copies: the former is a treaty between Louis XVI. of France and Ferdinand of Arragon, and the only connection of England with the treaty seems to have been that by Art. 15, Henry VII. was to be requested to become conservator of the peace concluded thereby, and so a copy of the treaty was probably forwarded to him when the request was made. The latter is really a convention between Ferdinand and Henry VII., but it is only a copy, and Rymer gives no sign of the conclusion of such convention, though on the other hand this paper explains Henry's commission of 18 Nov. 1502, printed O. xiii. 35, and makes it plain how the Emperor was exempted from observing certain of the statutes of the Order of the Garter; a fact which would otherwise have remained somewhat unintelligible.

Among these additional papers were found the missing portions of several calendared in Part I. The documents had worn into two or more pieces, which became separated from one another in the course of time, and were then packed and described as separate documents. In all such cases the severed portions have been brought together and the documents rendered complete. Instances will be found in Box 16, No. 492, (28 September 1445) and Box 18, No. 540, in the first portion of the Calendar.

50	1366	1285-6. Michaelmas Term.	To the Barons, concerning the composition agreed upon between the King and the Count of Flanders. "Communia" of the 14th year of King Edward, in Michaelmas term. Guy Count of Flanders besought the King that since his sureties had now put themselves in prison at Monstroyl, according to the form of the composition lately concluded between the King and himself, the King would direct their release, whilst some on the King's behalf to be sent towards London might have a mutual treaty concerning the business at issue between the King and Count; adding he would send some of his own people at the Octaves of All Saints (Nov. 8) to the same city, who on his behalf should have full power in this matter. Wherefore the King directs the Barons, when the Count has sent some representatives at the day and place aforesaid to treat about the above matter, to lay other matters aside and attend to the said business, so providing that full justice be then done to those merchants of the King of England's realm whom it concerns, according to the tenor of the aforesaid composition, so that the King ought not to be further troubled about that business. Moreover, the King has directed John Bek to be present and to have with him everything relating to the said business.

50	1366	1285-6. February 18.	Settlement between the proctors of the Count of Flanders and the merchants of England. "Communia" of Hilary term in the same year [14 Edw. I.]. In the year 1285-[6] on Monday [Feb. 18] before the Feast of St. Peter in Cathedra in the 14th year of Edward King of England, a settlement was made at Westminster between Peter Prevost of the church of Bath, proctor of Guy Count of Flanders, and John Duraunt, of Donestaple, Richard called de Atrebato, of Lincoln, and John de Gernemuta [Yarmouth], proctors of the merchants of England, Ireland, and the Marches of Wales, whose goods were formerly arrested in Flanders by Margaret Countess of Flanders and Hainault, for which goods the Count of Flanders by lawful inquisition held was some time ago bound to the King to the use of his merchants aforesaid in 10,627*l.* 10*s.* 2½*d.*; of which the Count paid, as well out of the goods of Flemish merchants formerly arrested in England by reason hereof as out of his own goods, by good computation thereupon made between them, all except 1,131*l.* 11*s.* 6½*d.*, which remains still to be paid, and which the Count is bound to pay in London to the King or his order at the following terms, viz.:—one quarter by the Octaves of Pentecost next coming; another quarter by the Feast of St. Martin in winter [Nov. 11] next following; the third quarter by the Octaves of Pentecost next following in the year after, and the last quarter of the sum by the Feast of St. Martin in the winter, which will be in 1287; as in the letters of the prevost of Bath hereupon made and his procurations from the Count hereto affixed is most fully contained. The whole debt aforesaid then, except the sum already mentioned which remains unpaid, the proctors of the said merchants have received (except only 500*l.* which those of the Cinque Ports had thereof and detain to the damage of our Lord the King). The above settlement, however, was well and lawfully made by writs and deeds, in which all the items are contained, which were closed and sealed with the seals of the above proctors, and delivered to John Duraunt and Richard de Atrebato, and remained in their keeping. Given at Westminster the year and day abovesaid, in the presence of John de Kyrkeby, John de Cobeham, Philip de Wylugby, Nicholas de Castello, William de Middelton, and William de Carleton, then residing in the Exchequer of King Edward abovesaid, 18 February, 14 Edw. I.
50	1366	1286. June 2.	Convention with Flanders.—"Communia" of Trinity term the same year. Letters patent of Guy Count of Flanders ratifying and approving the above convention and settlement. "1286 on the day of Pentecost" [2 June, 14 Edw. I.] [The above seem to be extracts from the Q.R. Memoranda R., 14 Edw. I. (No. 12), mems. 14, 20, and 23d. Cf. R. i. 659; O. ii. 310; H. i. pt. iii. 4.]
50	1376	1295. September 3.	John Duke of Lorraine [Lotrich'], Brabant, and Lemburg appoints Sir Ernolph de Isk his proctor to receive from Edward King of England 4,000*l.* sterling which the King granted him by his letters patent out of the custom lately imposed on wools, "that "is to say, from our merchants and of our aforesaid territory "only." Louvain, in Brabant, "the Saturday next before the "Feast of the Nativity of the blessed Virgin Mary," 23 Edw. I. Endorsed, "Inde recepit Ernolphus de Isk, Miles Ducis, "mmxxli. decimo die Octobris a° xxiij. finiente."

50	1343	1300–1303.	"A Monsignor Amario di Valensa [Aymer de Valence] parli Kompangnon de Frescholbald." On the Feast of John the Baptist Master Berthold de Seynt Denys, Bishop of Orleans, preached at Paris, in the King's garden at la Poynte, before the King of France and his sons, the archbishops, bishops, abbots, priors, and the clergy of France, and before the religious houses as well the Friars Mendicant as others which came there for a procession by summons, and before a multitude of people without number. At the close of his sermon he said, that "as for news "that have come from the Pope, that . . . . . marvellous . . "against the King of France; the King and his council have "made certain articles for the raising the faith of Holy Church ". . . . and for the saving the estate of the King and king-"dom;" which articles he said a clerk would read there publicly. Afterwards a clerk rose and began to read from a great instrument publicly before all the afore-mentioned . . . . . in Latin, and for that his voice was too thin, another clerk rose by command of the King and his council . . . . . Master Giles de Ronyo, and read, in French, the above articles, briefly, to the following effect: "My Lords, for that the "Kings of France have always been men of faith, and have "maintained Holy Church and the state of the Lord Bishop of "Rome above all other Christian Kings; to do which the King "of France still endeavours, and wishes to eradicate all hin-"drances from errors which could arise amongst Christians: "He informs you that the archbishops, bishops, abbots, priors, "counts, barons, and other nobles of the realm of France have "proposed and sent in writing certain articles against the Pope "Boniface [VIII.], ... and some other matters, very hor-"rible, which he wished . . . . . to present, and have prayed "him to assent to the propositions sent him, that they believe "they are true, and that they can prove them. The force of the "said articles is this; to begin with, people report against the "Pope that he believes that as soon as a man dies the soul dies "with him; also that he says the soul will not have another "life after this, and that there is no life eternal, and they say "that for this reason the Pope prohibited anyone giving the "sacrament of Holy Church to a great personage of the Court "of Rome on his death-bed. Also he asserts that no one can "commit simony in the Court of Rome. Also, that he sells "spiritual things, as orders, dignities, and dispensations. Also "that he only believes in sorcerers and sorceresses: also that "he lowers Holy Church by the wars he occasions amongst "Christians. Also that he wishes to destroy the Christian law, "for that people report of him surely that he should have said "he would sooner destroy the Church than forego his purpose "to destroy the King and kingdom of France. Also, he is cer-"tainly charged with saying that there is no other Church than "the Church of Rome, and that he holds as 'patrins' all who "do not follow her ways. Also that he has said he would rather "be a dog than a Frenchman." The said clerk then said, "My Lords, how many more errors would there be amongst "Christians if the Pope were maintained in his error! Where-

50	1343	1300-1303.	" fore, all the above matters against him have been put in writ- " ing, and the abovesaid prelates, counts, and barons have " sworn on the Holy Gospels that all the things abovesaid are " each one of them true, and that they could prove them. And," said the clerk, " besides that, the Pope promotes war, distur- " bances among the people, and all the evils in the world; also, " he would not give the tenth of England to the King of Eng- " land unless he promised to make war on the King of France " with that same tenth. He also prevents by all means in his " power peace being made with the King of France. Also, the " Pope reveals the confessions of people, and by those confes- " sions puts them to public confusion, as has happened to one of " the bishops of Spain, as it is said, who confessed to a Cardinal, " from whom the Pope wished to know such confession, and " when he knew it he deposed him [the bishop], and then re- " instated him in his estate for money. Also that he said he " had made an agreement to kill certain people who disputed " whether Pope Celestien [V.], who was Pope before him, could " renounce the papacy. Also, when he pleased he caused the " people who have business before him to be so tormented and " beaten that they died therefrom." Then said the said clerk, " For that it is doubted that the Pope is contriving against the " King, prelates, barons, and others of the realm of France, " things prejudicial to them, they have made for themselves and " for their estate, and for all these who will join them, a chal- " lenge and an appeal to the council next to come or to the next " successor of Pope Boniface, and have placed themselves, the " kingdom of France, their lands and possessions, and all who " will join them, under the protection of God." Which chal- lenge and appeal the said clerk forthwith read in Latin before all the people. Then after the departure of such clerk two Friars Preachers, of whom one was named Friar Renaud Dalbymak, and two Friars Minor, stood up in the clerk's stead, and Friar Renaud recommenced on the Bishop of Orleans' subject, and descended to speak of the truth of the matter more fully than the bishop had spoken of it, and said, " The man who " speaks truth speaks before God, for truth cares not for flattery " or villany; so that I do not speak from flattery of the King " nor to vilify the Pope, but to declare the good conscience of " the King, and that you may know that what he does he does " for salvation of your souls. And since the Pope has said he " wishes to destroy the King and realm, we ought all to pray " the prelates, counts, and barons, and all those of the kingdom " of France that they be willing to maintain the estate of the " King and of his kingdom." Then those friars sat down, and one John de Monteny, a burgess of Paris, came in their place and said: " You have heard to-day how many charges have been " brought against the Pope and the challenges and appeals that " had been made from him, and also the putting of ourselves " under God's protection: and we wish you to know that the " chapter of Paris and all the chapters of the kingdom of France " and the University of Paris have assented and adhered to all " the abovesaid matters. Wherefore we command you, since " the matter concerns the welfare of the King and kingdom, " and profit of you all, that you tell us whether you will adhere " to the matters mentioned above, or no; and so much the " rather because we have here public notaries who ought to put " your assent on record." Then the greatest part of those present cried, "Yes, yes, yes!" On the morrow of St. John the King of France sent some of his people with tabellions to the houses of the Friars Mendicants, and caused each friar to be examined by himself if he were willing to assent to the propositions or no; and they found a good number of different tongues [assez de diverses langues] who would not assent; and those who did not assent they thereupon commanded from the King to leave the kingdom, and they departed forthwith. 49	1303	1311. April 27.	Notarial instrument relating the proceedings between the French and English Commissioners to treat for peace in 1311. At a meeting of Robert Bishop of Amiens, Robert Count of Boulogne, and others, commissioners of Philip IV., King of France, with John Bishop of Norwich, John de Britannia, Earl of Richmond, Guy Ferre, and William Yngue, knights, commissioners of Edward II. on 27 April 1311, 6 Clement V., "apud Petragoras" [Perigueux], the commissions of Philip IV., dated Paris, 8 March 1310[-11], and of Edward II., dated Berwick-upon-Tweed, December 12, 1310 [R. ii. 121; O. iii. 237; H. i. pt. iv. 179] were read: in which each King empowers his envoys to seek from the other the execution of those things remaining unperformed from the treaties of peace concluded between the said Philip and Edward late King of England, and to perform what is due from himself to the other. The deputies of the French King then said they would not proceed "super pacibus" until they had negotiated "super supprisiis." They said they had transcripts of the peaces concluded between the Kings of France and England, which were then read, as follows:— (i.) A peace concluded between St. Louis [Louis IX.] of France, and Henry III.; the French counterpart dated at Paris, October 1259, and the English at London, 13 October 1259 ["le lundi prochain devant la feste Saint Luc l'Evangeliste."] [Diplomatic Documents, Vol. i. No. 10. R. i. 389, 390; O. i. 688; H. i. pt. ii. 50.] (ii.) Between Philip III. of France, son of St. Louis, and Edward I., dated at Amiens, 23 May 1279, and Amiens, 20 May 1279. [Diplomatic Documents, Box 37, No. 1078. R. i. 571; O. ii. 134; H. i. pt. ii. 179.] (iii.) Between Philip IV., now King of France, and Edward I., each counterpart being dated at Paris, August 1286. [Diplomatic Documents, Box 1, No. 19. R. i. 672; O. ii. 336; H. i. pt. iii. 14.] (iv.) Letter of Pope Boniface VIII. adjudicating on the matters in dispute between the Kings of France and England, dated at St. Peter's at Rome, ii. kal. Julii, 4 Boniface VIII. [30 June 1298]. [Papal Bulls, Bundle 6, No. 8. R. i. 894; O. ii. 819; H. i. pt. iii. 200.] (v.) Between Philip IV. and Edward I., dated Longchamp, "le vendredi devant la Feste de St. Bartholomeu l'Apostile" [August 23], 1303; and St. Johnstoun of Perth, in Scotland, 10 August 1303. [Cf. R. i. 958; O. ii. 936; H. i. pt. iv. 29.] The notary compared the above with the originals and found them correct. The deputies from the King of England also caused the following transcript to be read:— (vi.) Philip IV. announces that in return for land of the annual value of 3,000*l.* Tournois which he is bound to assign to the King of England, the latter remits to him all his right in the land of Cahors ["Caturcinii"], which the French King's uncle, Alphonse late Count of Poitou and Toulouse, had retained; such concession to be in no wise prejudicial to the said King or his successors till such land has been assigned to him. Paris, August 1286. [R. i. 673; O. ii. 338; H. i. pt. iii. 15.] Of which letter the French deputies said that they had no transcript.
49	1305	1311. May 26.	Notarial instrument relating an interview between Robert Bishop of Amiens and Robert Count of Bolonia, deputies of Philip IV., King of France, and John Bishop of Norwich, Guy Ferre, and William Yngue, knights, deputies (together with John de Britannia, Earl of Richmond, who was not present) from the King of England to complete the provisions of the treaties between the Kings of France and England and their predecessors [see Box 49, Nos. 1303, 1304] remaining unperformed. The point of the argument was, which side should set forth the possessions claimed by the King of England from the French King under those treaties. The English deputies show that they seek declaration and delivery of the lands, "omnia "consistentia in tribus civitatibus et diocesibus," not only by virtue of the first but of the third peace, by which the present King of France re-granted the possessions conceded by the first peace, using the same words as above; and they assert that the 49	1304	1311. [May] 26.	Notarial instrument relating a conference held 26 [May?] 1311, 6 Clement V., in the house of the Friars Minor at Perigueux, where were present Robert Bishop of Amiens and Yvo de Laon, deputies of the French King, to carry out the peaces and ordinances concluded between the Kings of France and England and their predecessors, with John Bishop of Norwich and Guy Ferre and William Ingue, knights, deputies from the King of England. The Bishop of Norwich for himself and his colleagues informed the Bishop of Amiens and Yvo that the Lord Bishop of Amiens for himself and his colleagues lately had answered verbally the last reasons adduced by him and his colleagues, and afterwards had sent those answers [in writing] by Master Geoffrey, public notary; in which answers delivered in writing, some things were contained which had not been said; the same Lord Bishop of Norwich saying for himself and his colleagues that hitherto the matters aforesaid delivered in writing by the Bishop of Amiens did not, and ought not to, hinder the requests made by himself and his colleagues. And he delivered to the Bishop of Amiens a roll of parchment, in which he said more reasons were contained why the aforesaid matters delivered by the Bishop of Amiens did not, and could not, hinder his own request; of which roll the tenor is as follows:—"Since, according to the peaces, the King of France is bound to deliver up "all possessions lying in ['omnia consistentia'] three states and "dioceses, as is contained in these petitions which are sought to "be declared," &c. John Bishop of Norwich and his colleagues say that the aforesaid matters ought not to be stated by them (for other reasons assigned by them) otherwise than they have been stated before and in the peaces. And also the King of France himself granted the aforesaid possessions so sought to be delivered to the King of England; and thus it belongs to the French King to deliver up and hand over the aforesaid as he granted them, that is to say, "all things contained, &c.," as far as in him is and pertains to him: That is to say, to deliver or cause to be delivered, clearly and openly, the fees as fees, demesnes as demesnes, and so with other possessions granted; keeping, however, the form of the peaces, retaining also other matters privileged by the letters of St. Louis and the ancestors of St. Louis, &c., and the homages of the brethren of St. Louis if there are any therein, and the greater superiority [sovereignty] which it belongs to him to declare. It continues to the same effect. Duplicate of a portion of the above. Fragment, damaged, 26 May, 4 Edward II.

For which affectionate words a messenger was sent by the Earl to Lord John with very fair words, thanking him for the affection and good will the Earl perceives he bears to the King, and to recite the promises made as above; and if Lord John approves and persists in them, he is to be bidden to send some one to the Earl with full power to treat thereon, since the Earl has full power from the King for this purpose, and is prepared to do for him and his company what is incumbent in the stead, place, and name of our said Lord the King. If the aforesaid envoys find Lord John well disposed and inclining to our part with a good zeal, then by his advice let negotiations be begun with others to whom other letters of credence are directed: if he be not well disposed, then it must be still more diligently treated with the aforesaid that they send some one from them, as is above contained, to conclude some convention with him [the Earl]. And be it remembered that inquiry must always be made very secretly if the King of France have made any alliances with any of those parts, or have sent to make such alliances; and if it can be done cautiously, let them be hindered from confirming as well these as others, when it shall seem expedient; as it is just on the part of our Lord King and Duke, who was and always will be prepared to do to the King of France what [service] is due for the Duchy [of Aquitain], as far as he is bound to this in fitting time and place, and as the King of France has notoriously injured us by invading the Duchy with armed force on feigned reasons, usurping by violence voluntarily the rights of our said Lord the King. They are required for two reasons, the fealty or vassalage by which "our Lord the King" is bound to the King of France, and the confederacy between their ancestors. The King of England is not bound by these reasons, for the clauses concerning enemies and those bound in former treaties do not mention the premises; and additional reasons against his compliance are that faith has not been kept with the King of England in the same case, and the danger of his own people.

The following extracts are given as specimens of the contents of the roll. 1. In the bailiwick of St. Asterio our lord the King and Duke has in his own dominion 14 parishes (the names of which are given) in which he alone of old has and has exercised all manner of jurisdiction, save only that in the town of St. Asterio the canons of St. Asterio have all manner of jurisdiction, yet by authority of the King. But for eight years past the Seneschal of Perigord for the King of France hinders and altogether withdraws the said parishes from the King, and has caused it to be proclaimed publicly that the King's officers ought not to be obeyed in anything. And this he does by pretext of a certain ordinance which the Bishop of Amiens has executed, and his colleagues, that he would not obey the King's officers in any respect, saying that the Count and Bishop of Perigord, the Chapters of Perigord and St. Asterio, with their fees and sub-fees, are held immediately from the King of France, and that the aforesaid are [part] of the fees or sub-fees of the same. 4. Also in the bailiwick of Beau Regard, under the proper authority of which there were of old the parishes of St. Julian, of Campsecret, of Montanhac, and Belesinas, and [which] are annexed to the fortress of Beau Regard, and belong to the same lord the King and Duke; the bailiffs [Bavilus; ? Balivus] of Maurenys and of St. Louis, for the King of France, have taken possession of the said parishes for the past eight years. 6. Also our Lord the King and Duke has in Perigord a certain rent called cocket ["coc'"], which is wont to be levied on the castles and chastellanies of Limolio and Sendreus and elsewhere in different places, which the officers of the said King and Duke have not been able to levy, on account of the opposition that Peter de Galarda offers, for seven years or thereabouts, whereby our lord the King has been damaged in 250*l.* Tournois "rendual'." 7. 50	1369	1328. April 6.	Sir John de Haustede, Seneschal of Guienne, Sir Fortanier Desgarrabaque, Geraut du Puch, Judge of the Court of Gascony, Pierre Cachou, Lord of Podesac, John Guicard, keeper and executor of the King's seal and counterseal used at Bordeaux for contracts, Arnaut de la Moleyra, clerk, and Elias Andoyn, to the Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer. With regard to the requests, Thomas de Driffeld, proctor of Sir Nicholas de Hugate, late Treasurer of the King—father of the King that now is—in Guienne, has made before us of Aubert Metge, the King's clerk, by virtue of some writs from the King under his great and privy seal to the said Aubert, to make an indenture upon the delivery by Sir Nicholas to the said Aubert of any victuals or other things: Sirs, Master Aubert has always said he is ready to obey the King's commandment, and he offers to make indenture with Master Thomas in the name and as attorney of Sir Nicholas, of the said victuals and other things delivered to him by Sir Nicholas, declaring the state and condition of the said victuals and what they were at the time of delivery, according to the contents of a roll Master Aubert showed before us of the victuals and other things delivered to him, which had been collated with the writings of Master Thomas before us, John Guicard and Arnald de la Moleyra, deputed by the Seneschal for this purpose. And because a dispute arose between Masters Aubert and Thomas about the making of the said indenture for divers reasons alleged on either side, of which some were delivered in writing and read before us; we therefore directed as is contained in notarial instruments in which the said reasons delivered in writing, and other matters ordained are more fully contained, as by one of the said instruments sealed with the seal of Gascony, the seal and counterseal used at Bordeaux for contracts, and the seals of us councillors aforesaid, which the bearer will show you, you can more plainly see; which bearer we are sending to the King with our letters patent upon the same subject, and to you with these letters, in order that our lord the King and you may give direction in the said matters, and send back order by the bearer what before God, for the right and truth, seems to the King and you best to be done for the King's advantage, discharge of each of the said parties, and for clearing of Master Aubert. It has not been the fault of the said Master Aubert that the indenture is not made in all truth if Master Thomas would have consented thereto. Sealed by the Seneschal and John Guicard with their seals of office, and by the other councillors with their own seals. Bordeaux, 16 April, 2 Edw. III. Only one seal remaining.
50	1382	1328. July 21.	Will of Isabel daughter of the King of Spain, Duchess of Brittany and Viscountess of Limoges. Gives directions as to her burial, the distribution of legacies of various amounts to her household, to the cathedral churches, and the mendicant orders of Brittany to sing the requiem mass and pray for her soul; gives 400*l.* to be devoted to works of piety, and other sums to her confessors, &c.; disposes of her rights as heir to the King of Spain, and appoints as executors of this her will her husband the Duke of Brittany, Danyel Bishop of Vannes, Henri du Bois, and Olyver de Kadodal. "Le Jeudi avant la Magdelenc," 2 Edw. III.
50	1348	1331. September 2.	Inspeximus by John de Milon, keeper of the prevostship of Paris, on Monday, 2 September 1331, of letters under the great seal of Philip [VI.] King of France, dated at St. Christofle, 13 April 1331: setting forth that whereas by the last accord made by him with the King of England, Duke of Guyenne, it was agreed that that which ought to be rased to the ground of the castles of St. Croiz, Madellan, Pui Pymes, and Don Bardill was rased according to the form delivered by the Marshal Bertrant; at the personal request of the King of England, the French King grants that of these castles (and of others if there are any) of which he was bound to rase any portion according to the agreements made by him or his predecessor, Charles King of France, and the King of England, the said King and Duke shall not be bound to rase or cause to be rased more than has already been done. 2 September, 5 Edw. III. [Seal of prevostship of Paris attached broken, with counterseal perfect.]

50	1367	1357. June 12.	Notarial instrument reciting the proceedings in a case of appeal by Sir Thomas de Seton, of Durham diocese, against the sentence delivered by Oldrad de Mayneriis, then Bishop-Elect, but now Bishop of Novaria, in a suit brought against him by Lady Lucia Crok, widow of the late Robert de Coksid, citizen of Durham, concerning a pretended marriage contract and the despoiling of lady Lucy's goods by Sir Thomas. The appeal was heard by Bartholomew de Boscario, prevost of the church of St. Peter of Chasselet, in Morin diocese, who on 1 March 1357 confirmed the previous sentence and condemned Sir Thomas in costs of suit, which on June 12 following he taxed at 42 gold florins Florentine. 50	1335	[c. 1360.]	Answer of Master John Guicard (or Guitard), Seneschal of Toulouse, to the complaint of Master John de Larrunt. Whereas Master John de Larrunt says the said Seneschal of Toulouse ought to have attended before to proceed to the execution of the said command of the said King of France, and to the delivery of the said country, as the Bishop, the greater part of the clergy, and barons and others were absent, and that for such a deed which so concerned all generally, all ought to be summoned: the said Master John Guicard replies that that was understood when a matter concerned all generally as a whole ["comme en universalité"], but it was not so [here]; for in this case to take an oath of fealty does not concern all as a whole, but as individuals ["ne toche mie toutz cum en universalité mes come en singulier"], for each by himself individually is bound to make oath of fealty. 50	1352	1361–2. January 13.	King Edward III. to Thomas de Brantyngham, Treasurer of Calais, Stephen de Bomylond, and John Goldbeter, Governor of the merchants in the parts of Flanders. We are sending you our two letters patent procuratory, one making mention of the payment [of the portion] that is due of the ransom of the Bishop of Noyon, our prisoner, upon the new bonds of which you spoke in your [last account] sent to our Chancellor and Treasurer; and another touching the payment [thereof] and with that the 50 marcs of silver [in pieces] of Paris and a courser of 100 motons . . . . . , due by the old bonds, as you know: and we send also letters patent of acquittance for what is contained in our said other letters, and a third for 1,500 crowns in which the merchants were bound to us. So we will you to speak with the proctors of the Bishop, by all good ways you can, and as you shall see best to do for our profit, that we may be obliged [servi] at once as well with the said 1,500 crowns "Jehan" of the payment for this Christmas term as with the silver and courser aforesaid, according to the effect of the said letters patent and acquittance; and bring the matter to pass if they are willing. Deliver them also the acquittance with the old bonds and the letters of acquittance touching the merchants; retaining by you the new bonds. And if the proctors will by no means consent to give satisfaction for the silver and courser, but only for the payment this Christmas according to the form of the new bonds in the way they have offered before, and this upon condition that the old bonds be restored them and the two acquittances each for 1,500 crowns, and you see that they wish to remain in all respects upon this [footing]; if you can, cause the 1,500 crowns, the payment for this Christmas, to be put by consent of the said proctors in safe keeping for our use, until we have news of that which we have sent to Sir Robert de Lorry touching this matter, or till you receive other commandment from us; so that we may either way be sure of the said payment out of hand. If you cannot do this and you see either it will come to receiving at once the payment offered or to put it in part on the future, perchance to our loss if it be refused now, we are quite willing in that case that you receive the payment and new bonds in our name, but that they be drawn up according to the effect of our letters of privy seal of which we sent you the copy, delivering to the said proctors the old bonds and the two procuratorial acquittances before named, if you cannot negotiate for our greater advantage; protesting for us and in our name that we do not propose nor is it ever our intention to relinquish the silver and courser aforesaid, but to save ourselves by this our action and claim in time to come. In case, however, we cannot be obliged with the silver and courser, we would the business should wait till we have news from the said Robert. We cannot at present light on [avenir à] the obligatory instrument of the said merchants, and for that reason it is necessary that without it you carry the matter through as well as you can by delivering in place of such instrument the above acquittance touching the same merchants, as your said letters import. Under the privy seal, Westminster, 13 January, 35 Edw. III. Portion of seal remaining; document much damaged.

48	1277	1362. January—February.	Large roll containing a notarial certificate of the proceedings relative to the cession by John King of France to Edward III. of the territories of Bigorre, Tarbe, castle of Lourde, and other places, in accordance with the treaty of Bretigny in 1360. The following is a brief calendar of the contents of the roll, the first portion of which is wanting, and some of the rest damaged and illegible; such extracts as are printed by Rymer being noted and the references given to the Fœdera:— [m. 0.] Portion of letters of John King of France [presented by Mons. Adam de Houghton, Commissioner of Edward III.], commanding the cession of the province of Bigorre to the King of England or his deputy. Bois de Vincennes, 27 July 1361. [See R. iii. pt. ii. 624; O. vi. 332; H. iii. pt. ii. 47.] [m. 1.] Letters of John King of France to [le Sire de Basalhac], directing him to enter into the faith and homage of the King of England for all that he holds in Tarbe, Bigorre, or elsewhere in the territory to be ceded to the English King by the King of France, when so required and upon the showing to him of these present letters, absolving him from his allegiance and enjoining him to obey the King of England as his lawful Sovereign. Bois de Vincennes, [12] August 1361. [R. iii. pt. ii. 624; O. vi. 332; H. iii. pt. ii. 47.] The like letters to le Sire de Chastelbeat, Chastelain of Lourde, for the surrender of the castle of Lourde. Louvre les Par, 25 November 1361. [R. iii. pt. ii. 631; O. vi. 341; H. iii. pt. ii. 49.] [m. 2.] The like letters were then presented to the Sire de Chastelbeat, sealed with the Privy Seal of the King of France. Also the said day, place, and hour, Mons. Adam [de Houghton] presented to Sire de Brabasain similar letters to him from the King of France, to transfer to the English King his homage for all he holds in Tarbe or Bigorre of the King of France; dated Bois de Vincennes, 12 August 1361, and herein recited. [Cf. R. iii. pt. ii. 624; O. vi. 332; H. iii. pt. ii. 47.] Thereafter letters close to the like effect under the Privy Seal of France were handed to le Sire de Barbasin, who answered M. Adam that he would consult with the nobles and barons and reply on a day named; whereof M. Adam requested the notary to make one or more instruments, and then returned to Aux. On the morrow, Thursday, 27 January [1362], M. Adam went to Mirande, whither came also the Seigneur d'Aubigny, Seneschal of Thoulouse. On Friday the Seneschal went to Tarbe to treat with the nobles and commons of Bigorre and show the King's letters for the cession of Tarbe and Bigorre to the King of England. [Diplomatic Documents, Box 9, No. 249.] The same day M. Adam presented to John Count of Esterac letters of the King of France for [m. 3.] the cession to the King of England of the territory of Agenois, dated at Bois de Vincennes, 12 August 1361. The Count asked for a time and place to be fixed for him to do homage for the castle of Faolhet, and a day was appointed in the town of Condom. The same Friday M. Adam went to the city called Rebasteux to await the answer of the Seneschal of Thoulouse as to the delivering up of Bigorre; the latter going to Tarbe, and Bartholomew Fayet, clerk, with him to carry the letters of the French King on the cession of the said territory and show them to the prelates, nobles, and commons thereof. Saturday and Sunday, January 29 and 30, the Seneschal treated with the estates there; and on Sunday Fayet was sent to M. Adam, who came to Tarbes to supper, was received by the whole town, and lodged with the Friars Minor. On Monday John Guitard requested from the Seneschal of Thoulouse the cession to M. Adam, as deputy of the King of England, of Tarbe and the part of Bigorre there-

48	1277		about, of le Chastel [m. 4.] Beat, Basoilhac, Arrebasceux, Banheres, and other places. To this request Master John de Larrin, Bachelor of Laws, objected on behalf of those whose names are underwritten, because (1) the province of Bigorre had never belonged to the King of England nor his ancestors, and the King of France could only cede to him lands which were wont to belong to the English King, but had [m. 4.] been in the hands of the King of France; (2) the French King had annexed all Bigorre to the crown of France by letters patent in which he had sworn it ought not to be, and should not be, alienated from that crown for ever by gift, sale, exchange, or otherwise, except to his eldest son, who was to succeed to the crown of France; (3) also that Bigorre was conterminous with the kingdom of Arragon, the territories of Bearn, Armaniac, Esterac, Pardiac, and others, and this conterminous country [m. 5.] neither ought to, nor could be, taken out of the hands of so great a prince, but ought of right to remain in his hands and not be transferred to other more feeble hands ["en autre main plus basse"], of which things if the King of France had been advised he would not have delivered up the country of Bigorre to the King of England; (4) the Bishop of Tarbe was also absent and many other nobles and clergy, and on so important a business as changing seigneurs all ought to be agreed. He, therefore, prays the Seneschal to appoint a day before which they might send to the King of France and learn his will. Guicart answers the above objections, and concludes the Seneschal ought to proceed to the cession as requested. Here follow the names of those present at the above proceedings. The Seneschal took till the morrow to consider, and on the morrow (Tuesday) said he wished to speak with the prelates, nobles, and commons not present in Tarbe on the following Thursday, February 3, when he would give an answer, to which M. Adam agreed. The same Monday were presented letters patent and close from the King of France to the following: letters patent to the Sire de Basalhac, enjoining him to do homage to the King of England for all he holds of the King of France in Tarbe or Bigorre, and releasing him from allegiance to himself. Bois de Vincennes, 12 August 1361. [R. iii. pt. ii. 624; O. vi. 332; H. iii. pt. ii. 47.] Also letters close to the same effect. [m. 6.] Similar letters patent and close to the Sire de Benac, the Sire d'Aubigny, and the Abbot of St. Peter de Gieres; letters patent to the Chastelain of Vidalos [or Bidalos] to deliver up the said castle, dated at Louvre les Par, 25 November 1361. [Cf. R. iii. pt. ii. 631; O. vi. 341; H. iii. pt. ii. 49.] And the like to the Chastelains of Banheres, Barege, Dos, and Campan. Here follow the names of those present at the presentation of these letters. [m. 7.] On Thursday, February 3, M. Adam went to the Seneschal, and Guicard repeated the request for the surrender of the territories. De Larrin objected as before, and Guicard made the same answer, and demanded in whose name de Larrin spoke? He replied in the name of the prelates, barons, and commons present, and all those of Bigorre. Guicard asserted that he spoke for himself alone, and the Seneschal ought not to attend to him, and then demanded of the prelates and others present if they avowed Master John de Larrin in what he had said which tended to the disturbance of the present peace and disobedience of the commands of the King of France? Thereupon no one avowed him, but "each held his peace." Guicard then declared that as Master John de Larrin had not been avowed he had spoken for himself alone and for no other, and therefore he required the Seneschal to proceed to the execution of the business. The latter said that both on account of the peace concluded between the Kings, the present directions of the King of France, and because he had himself taken the oath to perform the peace, he directed M. Bernard Palet, Doctor of Laws, and of the French King's Council, to take the necessary steps for the execution of the treaty [of Bretigny]; who thereupon called on all nobles and inhabitants of Tarbe and Bigorre to take the oath of allegiance to M. Adam, as deputy of the King of England, in the form usually taken to the Kings of France. This done, the Seneschal released them from allegiance to the French King, directing them to pay their usual rents, rights, and duties to the King of England. The Seneschal then declared Tarbe and Bigorre ceded to the King of England, the key of Tarbe Castle being

He commanded all ecclesiastics, barons, and others of Bigorre, and the consuls, bailiffs, and jurats of Tarbes to be at the cloisters of the Friars Minor that evening at vespers to take the oath of allegiance. At which time and place, in the name of the King of England, M. Adam first swore to those present and absent to be their good Lord and preserve their rights and privileges; and then the commonalty, "gardes," and others of Tarbes took the oath in the form here given. Then follow lists of the names of burgesses of Tarbe, and of the barons and knights of Bigorre who took that oath. [m. 9.] The next day, Friday, proclamation was made that all inhabitants of Tarbe should come to the church of St. John before vespers the same evening to take the oath of fealty. Here follows a list of over 300 names of prelates and others of Tarbe who at that time and place [ms. 10, 11.] took the oath, arranged under the "borcs" (boroughs or wards) in which they lived. On Saturday, February 5, the Seneschal of Thoulouse and M. Adam went to Vos, and the former commanded the consuls, "guardes," and "singulers" of the town to take the oath of allegiance, which those whose names are specified did accordingly; the Seneschal having absolved them from allegiance to the King of France, and transferred them from his domain and seignourie to that of the King of England, and M. Adam on behalf of that King having first sworn (as the people of Vos claimed he should, according to their privilege and custom) to save them from wrong and violence and to observe their rights and privileges. Being unable to wait to receive the oath of other "singulers" of Vos, M. Adam appointed Master Sans de Luquet, the King's proctor in Bigorre, to receive them, to whom more than 40 persons (whose names are given) tendered the oath. [m. 12.] The same day similar proceedings took place at the neighbouring places of Essereix and Ader, and also at Lorde, Lorde Castle being surrendered, and M. Guirard de Tartas appointed chastelain thereof, and an inventory given him of the property in the castle. On Monday, February 7, M. Adam and the Seigneur [m. 13.] d'Aubigny went to Banheres, where the like oath was taken by the "guardes," consuls, and people of the town, a list of [m. 14.] whose names is given to the number of nearly 200, and those of Campan likewise on the same day. [m. 15.] Wednesday, February 9, M. Adam and the Seneschal returned to Tarbe, and on February 10 went to Vic Bigorre and received the castle and the oath of those whose names are specified, about 100 in number. On February 11 they went to Arrebasceux, where M. Adam received the keys of the castle and the oath of those whose names are underwritten, both consuls and "guardes, conseilhadors and singuliers." [m. 16.] On Sunday, February 14, came to Tarbe the nobles whose names follow, the proctors of Val Segure, Val Dassun, Val de Bareige, and others to take the oath of fealty. At the same time and place M. Adam in the King's name presented for Senescbal of Bigorre M. Guirard de Tartas, chevalier, who took the oath of good service to the King, to give equal justice to rich and poor alike, and to preserve the rights of the prelates, consuls, and commons. [m. 17.] Appointment of other officers. On February 18 the Bishop of Tarbe took the oath of obedience to the King of England and his Seneschal of Bigorre. The names of chastelains appointed in Bigorre follow. On February 22 the King's council was appointed and sworn. [m. 18.] Process concluded with the Count of Foix and other barons of Bearn at St. Eule, Sunday, 13 March 1361[-2]. In the church of St. Nicholas on Monday M. Adam presented to the Count letters patent of John King of France, directing him to enter into the fealty and homage of the King of England for all he has hitherto held of the French King in Agenois or Bigorre; dated at Louvres les Par, 20 November 1361 [R. iii. pt. i. 631; O. vi. 339; H. iii. pt. ii. 49]; and similar letters close, and then Master John Guicart required the Count to enter into the fealty of the King of England and become his man, as above, which request Guiot de Plaigni, sergeant-at-arms of the French King, also made by commission from the Seneschal of Thoulouse, dated at Rebasteux, 11 February 1361[-2]. Answer of the Count of Foix. Excuses himself from taking the oath to M. Adam as the King of England and Monsieur le Prince he hears are shortly coming to Aquitain, and he hopes to receive from them his rights in the matter of Bigorre and Caumont. [m. 19.] A like request was made to various nobles, and their answers are given. The Count of Foix being requested to restore the towns and castles his father and himself had taken during the wars between the Kings of France and England; replied he did not know which they were, but he put himself upon the mercy of the King of England. Process upon the requisition that the Regidor (the Viscomte de Noalhes or Navalhes), jurats, and inhabitants of Sant should take the oath of fealty to the King of England. Attestation that this process was drawn up by Bartholomew de Fayet, public notary of Guienne.

These documents, which were in a very decayed state, have been repaired, and the following are extracted as specimens of their contents:— (1.) The Abbot and Convent of Shaftesbury, in Dorset, complain to the King that on Saturday in "la veille des Apostels St. Peter and St. Paul," 45 Edw. III. [28 June 1371], 1,000 Flemings armed as enemies of the realm arrived in 25 ships at "Purbyk," and assaulted the manor of Evercombe, in Purbeck, and took thence by force, batels, oxen, sheep, pigs, cheese, &c. to the value of 1,000 marcs. (2.) The Abbot and Convent of Cerne, in Dorset, complain to King Edward that on the 28th June 1371, 300 Flemings arrived in Purbeck and forcibly took from the manor of Kymeriek in Purbeck 80 sheep worth 12*l.*, 106 ewes worth 13*l.* 8*s.*, 38 hoggastres worth 68*s.*, 63 lambs worth 100*s.*, killed 300 sheep, and did other damage to the value of 20*l.*, and so wounded and ill-treated the tenants of the manor that some are since dead and others despair of life; which damages are estimated at 100*l.*, for which they pray remedy. (4.) To the Council of our Lord the King show Ralph Cornwayll and John Preston, of Calais, that goods shipped at London on 3 September, 45 Edw. III. [1371] on board the Persevel, Philip Langton, master, were seized by Flemings on Sept. 10 between Margate and Sandwich to the value of 232*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*; and Ralph had also a maid servant in the ship who was killed. Robert Sampson, of London, had also in the said ship cloths and goods to the value of 71*l.* . . . . (5) The people of Schiringham Scheld belonging to the haven of Blakenye, tenants of Lord Basset, who go to sea to fish for "chelings," shew to the King and Council the great mischiefs done them by the Flemings. They have taken three ships of Simon Fitz-Adam called the Ireland, Margaret, and Mary, and killed 72 sailors; value of the ships and goods is 300 marcs. . . . . The total losses through the Flemings are, ships lost 11, mariners killed 238, value of goods and ships 3,600 marcs, value of goods rifled from the ships 300 marcs. (7.) Hartlepool. The Flemings came with 300 ships and 6,000 men armed to assault on 25 March, [45] Edw. III. (8.) Whitby. Invasions of Flemings took place in 1343, 1345, 1352, 1355, 1359, 1360, 1367, 1370, and 1371. (11.) Saltfleet, co. Lincoln. . . . . On June 7, 1341, the Flemings attacked the Michael, Thos. Hervy, of the same place, master, took 600 fish and other goods to the value of 40*l.*, on June 2, goods to the value of 40*l.* In 34 Edw. III. the Flemings took from a ship of Alisaunde's, Wm. Skott, master, when fishing at sea, 1,200 fish and other goods to the value of 80*l.* On 8 Sept., 21 Edw. III., from another ship they took goods to the value of 100*l.* and killed eight men. Wm. Scott complains that about 16 June 33 Edw. III., the people of Sloynsland came and took 600 salt fish from his ship. Also Ranf Rubald, of the same town, complains that they killed 14 men and took goods worth 80*l.*, &c. (14.) Kingston-upon-Hull. Inquisition taken 45 Edw. III. before Walter Frost, deputy of John de Nevyll, Admirall of the King in the Northern parts. (19.) Richard. . . . ., a burgess of Lynn, complains that on July 8 last the Flemings seized his ship, the Alisoun, bound for Ireland with diverse merchandise, between England and Guernsey, took the merchandise, killed 18 seamen and two pages, contrary to the treaty, and did damage to the value of 300*l.*, for which the said Richard prays remedy. (24.) Laurence Apsalon, of Shoreham, complains that on 13 Jan., 44 Edw. III., he was at Les Cluys, in Flanders, with his ship of 80 tons, and after he had discharged his freight the Flemings

46	1224	1372. May 31.	Notarial instrument whereby Sir Lambert de Weston, of Lincoln diocese, and Jalequinus le Clerc, of York diocese, acknowledge the receipt of 1,250 nobles from Saladinus Provano de Cargnano on behalf of themselves and Sir Henry de Estornius, which they promise to repay at Michaelmas next, and to fit out within 10 days two vessels of 19 banks of oars for the service of the King of England or Jacotus, father of Saladinus, for as long as the King of England provides their wages. Nice, 31 May, 46 Edw. III.
46	1226	[1372.]	Roll of complaints presented to the Count of Flanders and the English and Flemish Commissioners by Flemish merchants of Ghents, Bruges, Daam, Watone, Ypres, and other towns in Flanders, of damages and losses inflicted upon them by the English, contrary to the treaty of 1370.
48	1275	[1372.]	Roll of 39 complaints filed by various burgesses of Bruges against the English, including the Treasurer, Captain and Mayor of Calais, for damages and injuries inflicted upon their shipping and merchandize in le Baye, and at the ports of Brest, Calais, Sluys, Newcastle-on-Tyne, &c. The complaints are chiefly of piracies at sea, the goods stolen being very various—salt, wine, skins, money, silk, kerchiefs, cloths, grain, comfits, pepper, jewels, &c., &c.,—and of murders attending such piracies; but others of a different nature occur, such as a complaint of wrongful detention of her inheritance by a woman whose brother died in England. The treaty between Flanders and England lately concluded ["fait darrainement"] at Marke or Merke [dated 20 March 1372, see above, Box 9, No. 266] is referred to, and in the same complaint "the week after Easter last past" [in 1372, April 17] is mentioned; so that the date of the roll is probably the latter half of 1372. In the margin the date of many injuries complained of is given, the years 70 & 72 [1370 and 1372] occurring most frequently, while in other cases a query is put, such as "soit declare le temps et personn," or a note relating to the plaint. The following are given as specimens:—"[Ici s'ensu]event les "plaintes que aucuns Bourgoys de Bruges font du Roy d'Angle-"terre et de ses subgez des outrages et injures et damaiges faiz "depuis le commencement des darraines guerres meutes entre les "Roys de France et Angleterre." x[a] Item, Dame Elizabeth, wife of George de Lisseweghe, Burgess of Bruges, complains of the King of England that at the time the mischief was done in le Baye, the said King caused the said George to be arrested and put in prison and confined in London, where he lies still in prison; and then in the town of Hantoen seized "waide" [woad ?] in barrels marked with this sign belonging to the said George, which the said King has sold and received the money; and the prime cost of the "waide" was 681 nobles; of which things—that is to say, of her husband and the said goods—she demands restitution. Cancelled, and noted in the margin, "Satisfaction has been given to the said George as he himself confessed." xxj[a]. Item, since the treaty made lately at Marke the English came before Vannes, in Brittany, in the week after Easter [April 17] last past; that is to say, Jehan de Tertelmude [Dartmouth ?], John Packer de Tertelmude, and William Attewolde, with their complices, and have taken from the said Denis [de la Ackere, burgess of Bruges] out of a ship upon the seas where they thought to have been and to be in good peace according to the contents of the said treaty, xvj. tuns and one pipe of wine, of which they drank part and carried off the rest by force, whereby he has received damage in the sum of 130*l.* gross or more; and of this he demands full restitution and to have justice and punishment upon the malefactors. Margin, "Non. Il est bailliet oultre." xxiij[a]. Item, Loy de Cassel, Burgess of Bruges, complains that the son of Sir Guy de Bryden with his English assistants came to a ship which Vos le But was commanding and killed all in it, and left there dead the brother of the said Loy; and they took out of the said ship in "ole" [oil ?], honey, "chire" [leather ?], and rabbit skins so much that he has received damage in prime cost to the value of 100*l.* Tournoys gross; of which the said Loy has recovered and received from the said Sir Guy by the hands of Amourry de Thauscero 50 nobles. And these goods were put on board ["miz suz"] at "Dermuwe" [Darmouth]. Margin, "L'an lxx., Li deputes dient qu'il en ont quitance de son moury." [46 Edw. III.]

46	1216	[Edw. III.?].	Note of what steps are to be taken, in case the King of France will not surrender Gascony, that the King of England may recover his territory by force of arms and provide for the safety of his realm during his absence. Also, opinions concerning the King's obligation to obey the French King's mandate in the letters brought by his ambassadors. By the peace with Louis the King of England is bound to do homage to the King of France for his lands beyond seas and to enter into his obedience, but to appear personally to advise him or aid him with arms is in nowise expressly contained in the peace. Hence the King of France by demanding this is going beyond the terms of the peace, &c., &c.
46	1212	[Edw. III.?].	Instructions for the King of England's envoy going into France. To explain that he lately applied to the King of France for a safe conduct for a messenger to go into Gascony because he was desirous to negotiate a peace between the Kings of France and Castile. Having heard anew that the King of Castile intends to approach Gascony, the envoy is to offer the King of England's mediation to effect a peace or a truce between France and Castile. If the French King refuse such arbitration, the King of England does not intend to cross the sea at this time; if he accept it he must be asked to prolong the existing truce to afford time for discussion of so important a matter.
46	1227	Ric. II. [1377–1399.] February 15.	Antonio Venerio, Doge of Venice, to Richard II., King of England, requesting restitution of certain goods belonging to Venetian merchants seized by the English. 15 Feb., Ric. 2. Decayed and almost illegible.
49	1302	[1377–99?] August 27.	W. eldest son of [the Duke of] Juliers, Duke of Gelders and Count of Zutphen, to Richard King of England. Certifies the King that the 12½ dozen and half ton of salt fish seized by the English at sea about February 2 last belonged to Werner Henrixsven and Nicholas Valker, of Elborch, two of his subjects, as appears by the deposition on oath made by the former and the proconsuls of Elborch; and requests that the value of the said goods may be repaid, promising that if restitution be made he will not allow his subjects to trade with France or any other of the King's adversaries. He also urges the King not to allow any of his subjects who may visit England to be injured by the English, but that the King will protect them and their merchandise. Novimagus, 27 August [Ric. II.?].
46	1239	13[79]. [July.]	Obligation of Gallerand de Luxembourg, Count of St. Pol, to pay at Calais by Michaelmas next the 8,000 gold francs, residue of the 50,000 francs to be paid towards his ransom before he is set at liberty. [July, 3 Ric. II. Cf. O. vii. 224, 227.]
48	1278	1379. August 15.	Notarial instrument containing the bond of Walrand de Lusshenburgh, Count of St. Paul, to repay to Wm. Scrope, Chancellor of England, and Wm. Beauchamp, the King of England's Chamberlain, the sum of 8,000 francs (2 francs=1 gold noble English) he owes them, at Easter next in St. Paul's, London, under penalty of forfeiting twice that sum in case of failure of payment, and defraying all expenses of the creditors in seeking repayment, upon security of himself and his successors, their towns, castles, inheritance, and all other goods. For payment hereof he also binds himself to the Papal Chamber in 16,000 francs. The Count further appoints proctors for payment of the above sum, and agrees to be excommunicated everywhere if he fails to perform the promises, to have his arms reversed, &c., and to go to prison in the Tower of London within 40 days of such failure of payment. 46	1232	1394-5. March 21.	Notarial instrument containing the following account of the grant of the Duchy of Guienne or Aquitain to the Duke of Lancaster. The grant of the Duchy by Richard II. to his uncle John Duke of Lancaster for life, dated Westminster, 2 March 1389[-90], is recited. After this Sir Wm. le Scrope went into Guienne as the Duke's seneschal, and settled certain difficulties; and on receipt of the King's letters patent, on 12 March 1390[-1], in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Bordeaux, the three estates of Guienne received the Duke of Lancaster as their Duke, taking the oath to him of that date herein recited, and received from le Scrope the letter of protestations and conditions here following, dated Bordeaux, 14 September 1390, containing a promise to obtain the Duke's undertaking to observe their privileges. Thereafter le Scrope read the Duke's letters appointing him seneschal of Aquitaine; whereupon the barons and burgesses received him as such, and he took the oath of office here following. He exercised his authority in the Duchy and Bordeaux till 18 August 1392, when the city of Bordeaux alleged he had violated their privileges, whereupon Henry de Percy, the Duke's seneschal, came into Guienne; and on 6 April 1394 some of the three estates declared that for the future they were under the rule of the King of England only, and would be his faithful subjects for ever. Finally, the Duke came in person, and exhibited the royal confirmation and mandates of his grant of the Duchy, and demanded admission accordingly. After various altercations the three estates resolved to send to the King to inform him of what had occurred, and that they would obey his mandate by letters patent thereupon; the Duke being allowed to govern meanwhile upon making oath to govern well. On March 11, 1394[-5] the commonalty of Bordeaux in the communal house of St. Elege delivered the following process to this notary to be submitted to the Duke for approval [containing a fuller account of the foregoing events]:—That King Edward by his grant annexed Bordeaux to the crown of England for ever. Hereafter, on 2 March 1389[-90], King Richard granted the Duchy to the Duke of Lancaster; le Scrope came as seneschal, in whose reception were some difficulties, the three estates of Aquitain telling him they were not conspiring against the King or Duke, but only preserving their liberties; that they rejoiced to have such a lord appointed them by the King of England, saving only their rights and privileges, though the grant cannot involve the separation of Bordeaux from the crown of England; and for preservation of their privileges they desire confirmatory letters from the Duke when he pleases.

46	1232		The King gives letters to Bordeaux and Aquitain that by this grant their privileges are not injured, and releasing them from their oath to him during the Duke's life, and letters to each estate with special protestations that they are not separated from the crown of England. The three estates cannot receive le Scrope as the Duke's seneschal because the Duke has not taken the usual oath of the Dukes of Guienne to observe their liberties and therefore cannot yet appoint officers as Duke; but they will allow him to exercise the office in the King's name, and on the Duke of Lancaster's fulfilling the customary forms they will gladly accept him as Duke of Guienne. This answer is certified by le Scrope at Bordeaux, 14 September 1390. The King thereupon declares, 23 November 1390, that he does not mean to injure their privileges, but that for the benefit of the Duchy it should belong to the Duke for his life, and on his death freely revert to the crown of England. Upon this on 12 March 1390[-1] the Duke of Lancaster was received as Duke of Aquitain, and le Scrope as his seneschal. The latter took the oath to preserve their liberties in the Duke's name, promising to obtain the like oath from the Duke before November 11 next. The seneschal exercised his office peaceably till 18 August 1392, when the city of Bordeaux complained of grievances at his hands, and refused to obey him or receive another seneschal till their grievances were redressed; the other officers of the Duke, as the chief constable, justice of Gascony, &c., continuing to exercise their offices. Letters passed between Bordeaux and the Duke touching the government of Guienne, and Henry de Percy came as the Duke's seneschal, concerning whose reception there was some difficulty, the grievances not having been removed. Finally, a controversy remaining concerning these abuses which the city of Bordeaux alleged and Percy denied, he introduced more abuses, though the town clerk asserted he ought not to exercise any authority in Bordeaux, not having been yet received or taken the usual oath. Then on 6 April 1394 the three estates ordained and took oath that they would be governed by our lord the King and his crown only for ever; promising to aid one another against any one seeking to injure them on account of this decision. Here follows the oath to be faithful subjects to the King of England only. The three estates informed the King of England of this union and asked for (1) a safe conduct for the ambassadors they desired to send him, and (2) a competent governor in the interim. Of these requests the King took no notice and the officers of the Duke exercised their offices in Bordeaux till the following May, and the constable till September last. After this the Duke came in person and exhibited letters from the King confirming his grant of the Duchy, &c., herein recited, and dated Cardiff, 10 September 1394; a letter to the three estates of Aquitain of the same date informing them of the same confirmation, and a like intimation to the city of Bordeaux. Sir John Trayli, mayor, and Arnald de Taudmario, town clerk of Bordeaux, were sent to ask the King's pleasure, and he replied that had not the grant been made he would not have ratified it, but as it was made he willed it to hold. The King writes to Bordeaux from Westminster, 22 June [1394], that he hears there are debates among them, and bidding them to send the town clerk and two others to inform him of the truth. To which they reply (Bordeaux, 26 August [1394]) the King is wrongly informed; there are no disputes among them, but Guienne is in great peril from being without government: they pray to be excused sending the town clerk and others, and that the King will be content with the ambassadors they propose to send to inform him of their peril. Thereafter the barons and burgesses of Aquitain and Bordeaux, doubting whether they would be perjured if they returned to the obedience of the Duke, asked counsel of the Archbishop of Bordeaux; who consulted with the doctors and others, and on March 21, 1394[-5], in Bordeaux Cathedral pronounced that in putting the Duke in possession of the obedience of the Duchy and obeying him as Duke, they would not incur perjury. 50	1353	1416–17. January 18.	Convention concluded between Joan d'Armonihac, Lady de l'Esparra, on the one part, and Sir William Clyfford, constable of Bordeaux, on behalf of the King of England, on the other. 1. Lady Joan cedes, sells, and alienates to the King all manner of right whatsoever, from whatever source arising, that she has in the town, castle, barony, and "chastellonie" of Esparre and the Esparroys, and all belonging thereto. 2. Similar article with regard to Bruhl and Carquans. 3. She will perform the above two articles, all fraud and evil imagination apart. 4. Will make no treaty or convention herself, or by any other, in any way contrary to or restraining this present convention. 5. Confirms this present indenture, and from now revokes and annuls every agreement previously made. 6. Will accomplish the above matters, in the form above written. 7. Will cede Roasan, Ponions, Quaneon, and Basiliac in the same manner as the places named above. 8. Lady Joan expressly submits to all judges of Holy Church and the secular Courts, specially the Seneschal of Guienne, Prevost of "l'Ombryere," and their lieutenants, and the keeper and executor of the seal and counterseal of the court of royal executive at Bordeaux used for contracts, so that when so required she will swear to observe these articles, all fraud apart. 9. Sir William Clyfford promises in like manner to pay Lady Joan d'Armonihac 15,000 francs of "fort monoye" (good money),

He will pay that sum to Dame Joan, or those having power from her to give acquittance therefore at the times specified below, viz.:—11. 1,000 francs out of hand. 12. The other 14,000 francs by the feast of St. John the Baptist next coming, that is to say, in 1417. 13. If any of the King's officers hinder the payment of this money, or part of it, this indenture to be null, she returning what portion of the money she shall have received within three months after the feast of St. John. 14. Sir Wm. Clyfford will use due diligence to remove all hindrance to the sum being paid, saving only just and reasonable impediment. 15. Lady Joan shall only be bound to pay the sum she has received, and returning this, everything promised by her in this indenture shall be null, if by the feast of St. John the 14,000 francs be not paid her in full. 16. She is bound to give the King the right of seignory and possession she has, can or ought to have, in the said places, as soon as the 14,000 francs are entirely paid. 17. Sir William covenants with Lady Joan that all her promises and covenants are de facto revoked if his above promises to her be not performed. 18. Notwithstanding the sum now paid by the constable, and that promised to the Lady Joan, she shall hold the revenues and rights belonging to the said barony and "chastellonie" as lord for her own use, as on the day of her husband's death, till the remainder of the sum be paid. 19. If the rest of the money be paid within the said term, Lady Joan is bound to deliver up real possession of the barony, towns, and castles to the King, or others in his name, as far as in her lies, and to make sale of all right she has therein in manner abovesaid. 20. If hereafter David de Montferran, Archbishop of Bordeaux, or any other, make any disturbance or demand about the above matters to Lady Joan, the constable promises to aid and defend her with his lawful power. 21. To make the said lady more sure of payment, he binds himself by the tenor of this indenture in his own name to pay and accomplish all the above matters concluded by agreement between the said lady and constable, and that in witness of its truth he will seal the present indenture with the seal of his own arms to accomplish the matters contained herein in so far as they concern the said Sir William. Lady Joan will likewise seal this indenture with the seal of her own arms. 22. In case the above matters cannot be performed, and the King our Lord does not agree to them, William Peytavin, burgess of Bordeaux, with the said lady, as principal debtors, and each of them for the whole sum, will bind themselves to repay the 1,000 francs delivered to Lady Joan; and each of them submits to the jurisdiction named above, renouncing herein all right, written or not written, and the law which says "a general renunciation only avails for what is expressed." The Lady Joan and William Peytavin swear to observe this. 23. To perform all and singular the above matters each party binds themselves to the other, their persons and goods present and to come. 46	1243	1419. May 14.	Notarial instrument reciting the negotiations for peace before James Bishop of Spoleta and Fernand Bishop of Lucca, the Pope's Commissioners, between the envoys of Wladislaus King of Poland, and Alexander alias Wytolldus, Great Duke of Lituania, and those of Michael Kuchmeister, Master General of the Teutonic Order of the Blessed Mary; held at Brunebikow [?], in the diocese of Vladislau. The King and Duke claim certain lands belonging to the Order; the Master-General's envoys undertake to safe conduct the Commissioners of the King and Duke to Thorn to show the Order's title deeds to those lands, and to give them copies thereof, if they will submit the case to the Pope's envoys. This being refused the envoys of the Master General by way of compromise propose to submit the case to one of 13 boards of arbitrators: either (1) the Pope and the King of the Romans and Hungary; or (2) the Pope and College of Cardinals; or (3) the King of the Romans and Hungary and the Princes Electors of the Empire, &c., &c. Lastly, the envoys of the King and Duke, in order to make peace, require from the Master General of the Teutonic order certain lands, castles, &c., and 40,000 florins of Bohemia; the Commissioners of the Order, to consider this demand with the Master General, withdraw to Thorn accompanied by the Pope's ambassadors, to whom they showed the muniments of the lands demanded by the opposite party, by which the right of the Order was clearly established. On their return the envoys of the Order offered to demise ["Ordo "se obtulit dimissuros"] to the King and Duke "terras satis "notabiles," and to pay 30,000 florins; but the envoys of the latter asserted they had no instructions concerning this, and the convention broke up without the desired peace being concluded. 50	1350	1432. September 4.	Certificate by Gilbert de la Bare, commissary of the government of the bailiwick of Dieppe for the Bishop of Rouen. To-day were present before us Pierre l'abbe prestre curé of Tostès, "Glocestre" (?), Herault herald of the Duke of Gloucester, Segret le Poursuivant, pursuivant of Sir John Fyfe, "grand maistre d'hostel" of the household of the Regent of France, the Duke of Bedford, Colin le Maistre, of Toste, clerk and servitor of the said curé, and William Cossete also living at Toste, who on oath say that last Tuesday [September 2], when coming from Rouen to Dieppe, they were attacked by brigands, asserting they were allied with the enemy of our lord the King, who seized the herald and pursuivant about the time of vespers on the said road from Rouen between Val Martin and the town of Malannoy, and took them towards Jougnans, where they robbed them, took their horses, and compelled them (as they say) to pay a large ransom or they would murder them. To escape death they submitted to pay 100 salus d'or and six marcs of silver, for they would have been killed had they not paid that sum, or given surety to do so, within 15 days at latest. Wherefore, as the robbers had taken all they had, they brought it to pass by gentle words that about 10 o'clock at night the robbers took them into Tostes; and as the pursuivant had for a long time acquaintance with the said curé he went in search of him or the servitor, and took him to the place where the brigands were; and the herald and pursuivant so entreated the said curé that to avoid their death he consented to be surety for them for the 100 salus d'or to be paid within the said time, which sum they said they had come to seek within the said day. Upon which matters we have interrogated the curé to know what account he can give of these robbers, if he knows them, and by what means he will deliver the said money? To which he answers on oath that as to the Poitevins he knows none of them, but it seems to him he recognised well a fat Paillart, one of the robbers. Le Maistre has affirmed to us on oath that he was present with his said master when the robbers detained the herald and pursuivant, and that, in his opinion, they would have killed them had not the curé bailed them; for they had no other acquaintances. Cossete has told us on oath that he and an absent companion, Robin Grosstcste, were concealed in the hostel in which were the herald and pursuivant taken by the brigands, and that he heard the ransom demanded and request made thereupon to the curé by the herald and pursuivant, and also the agreement made by the curé with the robbers to pay the 100 salus within the time named. And, in his opinion and conscience, if it had not been for the surety of the said curé, they would have killed them. For deponent says that he heard said to the landlady of the hostel where they were, Ivan de Caux, wife of John de Caux, that the robbers said, "A plague upon the trouble we have taken in it! "would we had killed them!" In witness hereof we have sealed these presents with the seal we use in the office of the bailiwick. Done 1432, Thursday, 4 September, under the seal "des obligacions" of the town of Dieppe. Seal, broken.

A Vidimus by the Keeper of the Royal Seal used for contracts at Tours, of letters patent of Charles VII., King of France, dated La Roche Saint Quintin, 12 June 1448, in which he approves of the choice of Pont de l'Arche by the King of England as the place to which he will send Commissioners next September to treat for final peace, and for a personal interview between the Kings, and names Louviers as the place to which he will send his Commissioners at the same time. Tours, 17 June, 26 Hen. VI. [O. xi. 216; H. v. pt. ii. 4.]
50	1381	1464. Aug. 31.	The magistrates, consuls, and consulate of Cologne to Edward King of England. The Diet arranged between the King's Commissioners and the Hanse towns, to have taken place on June 24 last, in which the Kings of Denmark, Norway, and Sweden, and the town of Dantzic, as well as the States of Prussia and Livonia, were to treat for peace between them and their subjects, could not be held because of (1) a terrible plague at Hamburg; (2) a matter which had arisen between those of Dantzic and Livonia and the Master of Prussia which they hoped would end in an agreement, without which, however, it was of no use for them to attend the Diet; (3) a rebellion in Sweden attended with such slaughter as would prevent the King of Sweden taking part in the Diet. And although by Henry Grevensteyn, Secretary of a German merchant in London, they learn that the King's Commissioners are prepared to start for Hamburg in spite of the plague; they had sent to Lubec and Hamburg to learn the truth, and the report was sorrowfully confirmed from those cities. Meantime, lest the Diet should fall through, in the hope of changing the place of meeting, they held four meetings in Wesel, and a last one in Arnheim, and at last wrote to the King's ambassadors asking them to await at Utrecht an answer as to a change in the place of meeting of the Diet; which they caused to be intimated as soon as possible to them there by Master John Vount, "our Councillor," and that owing to the aforesaid obstacles a new Diet could not be arranged in so short a time. That nothing may be concealed from the King they insert below the tenor of the letters from Lubec and Hamburg, and what was done in their second session at Wesel about the power delivered them by the other Hanse towns. Then follow the said letters from the towns of Lubec and Hamburg to the Commonalty of Cologne, dated July 18 and 21, 1464, respectively; and the determination arrived at by the session at Wesel, dated 6 March, 1462-3, 31 August, 4 Edw. IV. Latin, the three documents herein recited being in German.

50	1424	1474-5. Jan. 3.	Notarial instrument setting forth that on account of certain letters of ratification and approbation—viz., three letters sealed with the King of England's seal, and two with the seal of the commonalty of Lubec—a question and difficulty had arisen between Master Alexander Leigh, the King's chaplain, and John Duerkoep, procurator of the the whole Hanse, because of certain defects in writing and sealing the said letters, concerning which the said procurators had agreed as in the public instrument drawn up by this notary more plainly appears: and that in the city of Tournay, 3 Jan. 1474[5], Sir John Scot, Marshal of Calais, and Master William Hácteluf, Secretary of the aforesaid King, Commissioners of the King, on the one part, and John Duerkoep, John Hoyman, and John de Haugheren, Aldermen "et Seniores" of the German nation, as proctors of the whole Hanse on the other, acknowledged that they had mutually received the above letters of ratification and approbation, and after diligent collation, had enclosed them in a wooden chest and entrusted them for safe keeping to Master Cornelius de Urise, Prior of the Convent of the Friars of Mount Carmel; the said procurators ratifying and approving by these presents the verbal corrections in such letters herein described. Moreover, because the said Alexander was froward [morosus] about procuring the two letters under the King of England's seal, which yet he ought to have done by virtue of the agreement abovesaid, the said commissioners of the King in place of such two letters promise to procure two similar letters under the King's seal between this and Easter next [March 26], and transmit them to the hands of the same prior to be put in the chest. It is also agreed between the same parties that the treaty of concord concluded between the envoys of the King and the whole Hanse in the Diet of Utrecht held in February last shall have its full effect without any infringement whatsoever. Bruges, in the refectory of the convent of the Friars of Mount Carmel, the day and year above-named. [14 Edw. IV.]
50	1342	1476. November 26.	The Proconsuls and Consuls of Lubec, on behalf of all the Teutonic Hanse, inform the King of England that the town of Cologne has been reconciled to, and reinstated as a member of the said Hanse. Lubec, 26 November, 16 Edw. IV. Seal. [O. xii. 36; H. v. pt. iii. 74.]
48	1290	1478. March 5.	Letters patent of Edward IV. reciting and confirming the treaty concluded between England and East and West Frisia for perpetual peace and entire freedom of mercantile intercourse. 50	1416	1478. April 10.	Peter Yvanes, of Samarippa, near Vilbao [Bilbao], in the year 1469[-70], was going to Flanders with a ship called the St. John the Baptist, laden with iron, wines, and other merchandise, when three English ships, armed caracels, took his vessel and all the goods, as well as others, though it was in time of peace between Henry King of Castile and Henry late King of England. Upon this he complained to the King of England who found his complaint true, and condemned the aggressors to give security to restore the ships or their value. His ship was estimated at 150*l.* English, the spoil from the sailors and merchants at 40*l.*, and the total sum due to him is about 230*l.* He hereby appoints John Sancii de Ario his procurator to appear before the King of England and his Council for recovery of what is due to him. Vilbao, 10 April, 18 Edw. IV. [Cf. Box 20, Nos. 576, 577, 3 February 1481-2.]
50	1339	1478. July 1.	Acquittance by Lopes Senor de Barraondo, envoy of the King of Castile and Leon, for 100*l.* which he has received from the King of England by the hands of John Fitzherbert, a teller [numerator] of the receipt of the Exchequer, for a certain ship called the Carygon, sold by John Alos, a subject of the King of Castile, to the King of England, of which sum letters of acquittance dated London, 15 June last, make mention. London, 1 July, 18 Edw. IV.

50	1383	1480. July 17.	Convention, notarially attested, concluded by John Cooke, Secondary in the Privy Seal Office, and John Fox, Commissioners of Edward King of England, with John Sancii, of Ares, procurator of the county of Biscay and town of Bilbao, of Peter de Samarippa and of Guicio Martini, concerning depredations committed by the King's subjects on those of Ferdinand and Elizabeth of Castile, and Leon. 1 and 2. Sancii shall deliver the procurations he has from the county of Biscay and town of Bilbao, to all and singular the people of the same, and at the time of such delivery will declare publicly that all his said constituents are fully compensated for all manner of injuries inflicted on them by the King of England's subjects. 3. As by divers interviews it is found the procurations exhibited by Sancii were not sufficient to enable him to give acquittances in the name of his masters mentioned in the letters of obligation of Henry VI., he undertakes to procure from them such sufficient letters, and to send sufficient acquittances to the King and his subjects for all sums that could be demanded for injuries perpetrated by them. 4. Sancii in the name of his constituents shall receive 9,600 crowns for sums English merchants were condemned to pay to certain of his masters, and for customs due on merchandise between Castile and England; and specially out of that sum the customs shall be paid on merchandise from the province of Lipusta, and others afterwards till the said sum has been fully paid. 5. The sum abovesaid which Sancii shall receive shall be placed in indifferent custody until he shall have restored the above letters of obligation, and have procured and delivered up sufficient letters of procuration. 6, 7. As soon as Sancii has brought the letters of obligation, and the sufficient procuration of all his masters constituting him their procurator, severally and jointly, and has given them to the King of England or his deputies, he shall have the King's letters patent for receiving 5,000 crowns out of the customs on merchandise coming from Castile into England, from time to time till the satisfying of the said 5,000 crowns, of which customs the payment shall begin to run from the Feast of John the Baptist [June 24] in the present year, 1480. 8. If Sancii on his way into England with the said letters of obligation shall suffer shipwreck [so that the obligation of Henry VI., which was to be returned, shall be lost?], and of this the King of England shall be well assured by letters patent of the King and Queen of Castile, the King on receipt of the letters of acquittance mentioned above shall pay the 5,000 crowns as specified above. Sancii then produced four letters of procuration, viz., from the town of Bilbao, from Peter Samarippa, from Quicio Martini, and from the whole county of Biscay; and two other public instruments which he delivered to the English Commissioners; and acknowledged he and his masters were satisfied for all damages inflicted on them by any subjects of the King of England. Both parties then swore to observe the above convention. The commission of Edward IV. to the above Commissioners is then recited, dated June 20 last. 48	1291	1480. July 19.	Notarial instrument setting forth that John Coke, LL.D., secondary in the office of the Privy Seal of King Edward IV., and John Foxe, LL.D., Commissioners of the King of England, on the one part, and John Sancii Dares, procurator general of the county of Biscaie, on the other, affirmed that all questions relating to depredations committed by the subjects of the King upon the people of Biscaie had been settled by the following convention:—1. The King of England to have a moiety of all money and goods recovered from his subjects on account of depredations committed upon the goods and merchandise of those of Biscaie. 2. The King of England shall cause to be summoned to appear before him and his Council any of his subjects who have committed such depredations. 3. If after good inquisition made concerning the deeds of those so summoned, it cannot be made to appear that they are guilty, then the said John Dares and his "lords" will pay to the King of England all the costs of those so called to judgment, and in the name of his lords Dares will give acquittances to any and all subjects of the King of England for all injuries perpetrated by them upon the Biscayans, and will promise not to raise any cause or complaint against an English subject for any depredation committed before this time: John Cooke, on the other hand, making oath that the King and his Council have made diligent inquisition into the matter and have not found the accused guilty. The promise and oath of each party to observe the above convention is then recorded; and the commission of Edward IV. to Cooke and Foxe to

50	1388	1482. July 9.	The Emperor Frederick annuls and makes void his former grant to Gunther Earl of Muttingen and Lord of Barby, Earl Johansen, his son, their heirs and subjects for ever, of licence to carry down the Elbe by Hamburg wine, corn, beer, meal, and other grains and merchandise to such places as they think meet, and carry back herrings, cloth, and other goods, and to make sale thereof without or within the city of Hamburg; fearing if such grant continue it might greatly prejudice the common good and cause notable mischief and uproars. Moreover, for their faithful services in many ways the Emperor confirms to the town of Hamburg all freedoms, privileges, and rights previously granted them, commanding all nobles and subjects of the empire in no way to impede the Hamburghers in the enjoyment thereof under pain of the Emperor's and empire's heavy displeasure, and forfeiting "100 [marks] of massy gold." 50	1390	[1496 ?] [Oct. 1 ?]	Draft or copy of a treaty for peace and mercantile intercourse concluded between Henry VII. and Ferdinand King of Aragon and [Isabella] Queen of Castile. 1. All injuries inflicted by either Prince on the other in time past to be forgotten; in future neither will attempt, nor aid those who who attempt, anything against the other, but each will defend the other against all enemies. 2. Perfect freedom of mercantile intercourse between the subjects of both princes in the dominions of either. 3. Neither party to assist nor harbour in their dominions rebels against the other. 4. Each prince to include the other in any treaties whatsoever they may hereafter conclude, if he desire to be so included. 5. Seizures and reprisals by sea to cease on both sides. Every ship belonging to either nation to give security on leaving port to twice the value of the ship and victuals to observe this treaty; the mayor or other official of such port providing the vessel with a certificate of the security having been given, that by virtue thereof the vessel may have free access to and egress from any other port to which it may come. 6. If anything be attempted contrary to this peace the party aggrieved to have due reparation, but such attempt shall in nowise impair this present alliance. 7. Any subject of one prince being injured by those of the other, and unable to obtain reparation by the ordinary methods, shall be provided with commendatory letters by his prince to the other sovereign, who will supply the defect of his officials. 8, omitted. 9. If a vessel of either country is wrecked off the coast of the other, the official in that part shall seize the goods saved and preserve them, and if claimed within 20 months restore them to the owner on proof of his ownership. 11. Each prince shall take an oath to observe this treaty when so required by the other. 12. Each prince to ratify this treaty within six months of the present date when so required by commissioners from the other. [Sheen, 1 October, 12 Hen. VII. ?] [The above document contains no clue to fix its exact date; and it is not printed or noticed by Rymer. It has been suggested that it is a draft or abridged copy of the treaty concluded 10 October 1599, and of which the Spanish confirmation is given at O. xii. 741; H. v. pt. iv. 147. But on comparison the articles in this treaty (which are numbered as above, No. 8 being omitted) do not all appear in that, Nos. 11 and 12, for instance, being left out; while many articles appearing in the treaty of 1599 are altogether absent from this one, and these articles are very much longer in wording, and somewhat different in substance. On the other hand, Thos. Bishop of London was commissioned (22 September 1496) to treat for an alliance with the King and Queen of Castile, as well as for the marriage of the Prince of Wales with their daughter; but while the latter treaty is given under date July 18, 1497 [O. xii. 658; H. v. pt. iv. 114], the former does not occur anywhere. It seems probable, therefore, that the above is a draft or abridged copy of the said treaty of alliance; but the question cannot be settled with certainty. It is in a contemporary hand.]

50	1396	1502. [November.]	"Certain chapters follow treated and concluded between the "King of England and the Commissioners of the Emperor "[Maximilian]." 1. Whereas the Emperor by virtue of a treaty of peace with the King of England [dated 20 June 1502: see O. xiii. 22; H. v. pt. iv. 180] is bound to receive the Order of the Garter and observe the statutes of the Order, by reason whereof His Majesty is bound to take an oath for observance of these statutes: yet as the Emperor, so soon as he had been invested with the Order, took such oath, it seemed to him he ought not to be bound for the repeated offering of such an oath; and therefore his commissioners besought the King that such oath should not be exacted anew from the Emperor. In which matter when His Highness considers that the Emperor not only took an oath before for observance of these statutes, but now some time ago interposed a much more solemn oath, by which latter oath he is bound to observe the articles of the peace whereby he is expressly warned to keep inviolably the statutes of the said Order and publicly use its insignia; it seemed, therefore, to the King he is less bound to offer a further oath, considering he has given abundant satisfaction in that matter before, wherewith the King is well content. 2. Moreover, by the statutes of the Order all fellow soldiers within a certain time after their election shall send the insignia of the Order—sword, helmet, &c.—to the collegiate church of Windsor for taking real possession of the same Order; and although the Emperor has already sent his ambassadors to that end, yet, because they had not a sufficient commission, they could not enter upon possession of the Order without a dispensation from the head of the Order. The King, therefore, to whom alone the faculty of dispensation herein belongs, desiring to gratify the Emperor in this as in everything, has granted a dispensation that, notwithstanding the defect of a sufficient commission, the Emperor's procurator may enter upon real possession of the Order, first giving caution and making a public instrument thereupon that the Emperor will accept everything done in his name, and signify so by letters patent to be sent to the King before Pentecost. 3. And whereas among other articles of the peace it is contained that the treaty itself, or at least the tenour of its articles, should be published in the more important cities and towns of the empire; by information of his ambassadors the Emperor has understood it is unusual such edicts should be issued in the empire, and if such publication were carried out it might be of most pernicious example on account of the very many inconveniences which might follow to the Emperor. Wherefore he desires that publication of the peace may be made according to the form of edict drawn up by his Council. And herein the King would most willingly gratify the Emperor if from the said general publication any effectual result would follow. But since subjects of the empire in form and effect could pretend lawful ignorance of the treaty if it were so generally and confusedly published, and therefore could not observe or easily fulfil its stipulations, His Highness desires publication may be made

And since a difficulty has arisen about publishing that treaty in Aix-la-Chapelle because, at the entreaty of Lady Margaret, widow of Charles Duke of Burgundy, the Emperor has granted that rebels against the King [Regii rebelles] living there might freely remain in that town, and directed his letters to the governor and citizens to supply them with necessaries at the rebels' expense; and these rebels are liable to many creditors and have contracted a great debt there, so that if now by the Emperor's command, by whose favour they were first received, proclamation were made according to the form of the said articles, those refugees, with great disorder, loss, and tumult of their creditors, would be obliged to depart and go elsewhere, which would seem to stand very little with the Emperor's dignity: the King, desiring out of his great affection to do what will tend to the Emperor's honour, is content that, publication being made in the other cities according to the form newly drawn up, a general edict be made in Aix-la-Chapelle according to the tenour of that previously drawn up by the Emperor's Council, until a means be found by those princes by which those rebels' creditors may be lawfully satisfied, and then at length that proclamation be made therein in most ample form according to the effect of the articles as effectually as is now required to be published in other cities of the Empire. Then follow: "Tenor of the publication to be made in Augsburg, "Nuremburg, Cologne, Lubec, Frankfort, Strasburg, Inspruck, "and Vienna," and "Tenor of the publication to be made in "Aix-la-Chapelle." 50	1386	1502[-3]. January 24.	Maximilian King of the Romans to Edmund Duke of Suffolk. Whereas you very recently requested we would give you authority that throughout our empire you might punish those plotting against you, it has seemed that that might somewhat prejudice the cities of the empire; and since you have a general order that wherever you learn of such plotters against yourself then each city should execute the law against them at your instance, we have thought good to write to you to be content therewith, lest graver inconveniences arise to us.
